Molotov Will Talk of Differences With U.S. on Big Issues

Washington, May 11 (AP)—President Truman said today that the American bid to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov for "decent and reasonable relations" between the two countries "represented no new departure in American policy."

Its purpose, Mr. Truman said in a formal statement, was to make it "unmistakeably clear that the United States has no hostile or aggressive designs watsnever with respect to the Soviet Union."

The President's statement did not indicate whether the note of Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith to Molotov May 4 might be construed as an American proposal for discussion and settlement of existing differences between the two nations.

The two main points of the statement by Smith, Mr. Truman said, were these:

1. "The policies of the United States Government in international questions have been made amply clear in recent months and weeks. They have the support of the overwhelming majority of the American people. They will continue to be vigorously and firmly prosecuted."

2. "On the other hand this government wishes to make it unmistakeably clear that the United States has no hostile or agressive designs whatsoever with respect to the Soviet Union."

In a response Sunday to Smith's statement, Radio Moscow said the Soviet Union is ready to pursue a "policy of peace and cooperation with the United States."

The Soviet further interpreted the Smith note as a bid for "discussion and settlement" with Russia of differences which have split the postwar world.

The Moscow broadcast said Molotov had agreed to the proposal for talks ascribed to the United States.

Moscow's Response

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Moscow's response to a plain-spoken American bid for "decent and reasonable" relations with Russia gave a sudden boost today to hopes that the world's two top powers may be able to settle their quarrels.

The Soviet Union, Radio Moscow said, is ready to pursue a "policy of peace and cooperation with the United States."

Furthermore, Foreign Minister Molotov has agreed, the broadcast said, to a proposal it ascribed to the United States for "discussion and settlement" of differences which have split the postwar world.

From neither Moscow nor the State Department, however, came any hint as to when or how representatives of the two countries might get together. And American diplomatic authorities—veterans of two years of conference table sparring with the Soviet

Six Towns to Vote On Centralization

Spaulding Fixes Time for Taxpayers' Session Over Schools

On Friday, May 21, from 3 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. at the Mt. Tremper Grange hall, qualified voters of proposed Central School District No. 1, towns of Olive, Shandaken, Woodstock, Marbletown and Hurley in Ulster county and Lexington in Greene county, will vote on the proposition of establishing a proposed Central School district.

Commissioner of Education Francis T. Spaulding has fixed that time for the vote of the taxpayers of the district who will be called upon to ballot on the following question:

"Resolved, that Central School District No. 1, of the towns of Olive, Shandaken, Woodstock, Marbletown and Hurley in Ulster county, and Lexington in Greene county, as described in the order of the Commissioner of Education now before this meeting, be organized and a central school for instruction in elementary or elementary and high school subjects be established." If this resolution be carried by a majority vote, the meeting will thereupon proceed to elect a Board of Education.

Some time ago a movement was begun to establish a Central School District to include the townships of Olive, Shandaken, Woodstock and a portion of Marbletown, Hurley and Lexington. Objection was made by the residents of the village of Woodstock to inclusion in the plan and when the Commissioner of Education finally made an order recently ap-

Curren Agrees Gas Caused Explosion At Bus Terminal

Rating Bureau Official Inspects Building; Mrs. Whipple Is Recovering

Edward Curren of the Insurance Rating Bureau of Albany after an inspection of the Central Bus Terminal Monday afternoon verified Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy's theory on the cause of the explosion which damaged that place Sunday evening and injured three persons, it was announced today.

Curren agreed with Chief Murphy that the blast was caused by the building up of gases from the slow burning fire, which ignited when oxygen was allowed in between the ceiling and the roof.

Chief Murphy said today that Curren went over the building carefully, inspecting the pattern of burning and other details. Murphy explained he called Curren to assist in the inspection because of the unusual nature of the explosion. Curren is well known for his study of causes of fires and explosions, and at one time was connected with the arson bureau in New Haven, Conn., Chief Murphy said.

Mrs. Lillian Whipple, 85 Cedar street, a waitress at the terminal restaurant who was injured by the blast, was reported to be in good condition at Kingston Hospital today. The other two persons injured, Fireman Walter F. Madajewski of 39 Second avenue, and Frank Roe, manager of the terminal and restaurant, were discharged from the hospital following treatment Sunday night.

Artist's Wife Sues And Names Chili

Los Angeles, May 11 (AP)—Movie Actress Chili Williams says she didn't pose in the nude for artist Earl S. Moran.

Moran's wife, Mura, who sued for separate maintenance of $1,200 monthly, testified yesterday that she walked in the 53-year-old artist's studio one day, found Miss Williams nude and Moran attired only in shorts, socks and shoes.

"I was fully dressed that day," testified Chili. "Mr. Moran was in shorts. It was a hot summer day. Like other artists, he painted in shorts, but they were sport shorts."

Miss Williams admitted, as Mrs. Moran claimed, that she went to an artists' and models' convention in Minneapolis in 1943, but—

"I was naver alone with Moran at any time, and I had my own quarters there and en route."

Moran, contesting his wife's suit, is asking for a divorce.

Salesman Is Held In Jewel Robbery

New York, May 11 (AP)—Bernard Wolf, 19-year-old salesman, today was ordered held for police at Rochester, N. Y., where he allegedly is wanted for a $6,000 jewelry store robbery.

Wolf was arrested last night at a furnished room on Manhattan's West Side. He was charged with assault and robbery.

Police said Wolf and two others, not yet apprehended, held up Joseph D'Alba in his store at 826 West Main street in Rochester May 3. They said that when arrested, Wolf had about $4,000 worth of the diamond rings and watches taken in the holdup, and a .32 caliber automatic pistol owned by D'Alba.

Wolf said his home was at 207-12 42nd avenue, Bayside, Queens.

Government Overthrow by Force, Violence Is Charged; Asks Law Enforcement

Report Released

Document of 160 Pages Cites Charges Against Party

Washington, May 11 (AP)—The Communist party of the United States was formally accused today of advocating "the overthrow of our government by force and violence."

The House Committee on Un-American activities made the accusation and called upon the executive branch of the government for "vigorous enforcement" of existing laws to curb Communist activities.

"What the Chinese or Geek Communists are doing today is what the American Communists plan to do tomorrow," the committee declared.

In a 160-page report distributed to members of the House, the committee said it has voluminous evidence that:

"1. The teachings of Marx, Engels, Lenin, and Stalin constitute the credo of the Communist party, U.S.A.—in fact of the Communist movement throughout the world. The doctrine of forceful and violent overthrow of anti-Communist governments is a basic premise of these teachings.

"2. The model party of the American Communist is the Communist party of the Soviet Union, whose history forms a basic 'guide' or textbook for American Communists on the practice of force and violence.

"3. The American Party is now and always has been under the direction of an international Communist organization dominated by the leaders of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. . . .

"4. The Communist Party, U.S.A., and its leaders, both present and past, are on public record as advocates of the forceful and violent overthrow of the American government, despite their recent disavowals. Many of these leaders have received training in Moscow on the practical application of such methods.

"5. The Communist Party, U.S.A., has encouraged, supported, and defended, without a single deviation, the ruthless measures of foreign Communist parties to overthrow their legally constituted governments by force and violence. In other words, what the Chinese or Greek Communists are doing today is what the American Communists plan to do tomorrow under similar circumstances.

"6. While the United States Supreme Court has not yet made a judicial determination on the question, numerous lower federal courts have, with unusual consistency, handed down decisions which characterized the Communist Party, U.S.A., as an advocate of overthrowing our government by force and violence."

The committee said the threat

House Passes Bill to Build 70-Group Air Force for U. S.

Compromise Measure Is Favored Without Dissent; Provides 822 Millions

Washington, May 11 (AP)—The House today passed a compromise bill designed to build up a 70-group air force.

No dissent was heard to the voice vote.

The compromise was drafted yesterday by a Senate-House committee after the two branches of Congress had passed different bills.

Only Senate approval is needed now to send the measure to President Truman.

And Chairman Gurney (R.-S.D.) said the Senate Armed Services committee was ready to act on another national defense measure—a bill to combine a temporary draft and a universal military training program.

Gurney predicted the committee would approve the bill by a comfortable margin.

A Senate-House conference committee cleared the way late yesterday for final congressional action on the air force measure.

It earmarks $822,000,000 to start building a 70-group air fleet of jet fighters and long range bombers. That fund is part of more than $3,000,000,000 the bill provides for the armed forces, mainly for contract authority to let the air force and the navy's air arm order planes for later delivery.

Both the Senate and the House passed the bill by overwhelming votes, despite the administration's original program for only 55 groups and its later offer to compromise on 66 groups.

Both branches of Congress voted $822,000,000 for 70 groups. The conference committee had only minor differences to settle on other aspects of the bill.

Ratification of the conference report was all that was needed to send the bill to the White House. Action by both the Senate and House was likely today.

Date Is Set

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—The C.I.O. United Auto Workers today set 9 a. m. Wednesday for a walkout of 75,000 Chrysler Corp. employes in the absence of a wage demand settlement. Meanwhile, government mediators continued talks with company and union negotiators in efforts to head off a strike of workers in 16 plants. Norman R. Matthews, national U.A.W.-C.I.O. Chrysler director, announced the hour for the strike with only 24 hours remaining to reach an agreement.

Rome, May 11 (AP) — Vice-premier Luigi Einaudi emerged today as the leading contender for the presidency of the new Italian republic. Barring unforeseen developments, his election is expected tonight. Einaudi, 74, backed by the dominant Christian Democratic party, is a political independent. He is budget minister and governor of the Bank of Italy.

Jews Claim Victory in Drive To Open Vital Supply Line

Jerusalem, May 11 (AP)—Jews claimed victory today in the battle to open their vital Jerusalem-Tel Aviv supply line.

A spokesman said Jewish Commandos smashed through Arab resistance last night in the Bab El Wad gorge, then swarmed over the hills to wipe out Arab entrenchments.

Haganah militia engineers, moving in behind the Commandos, used bulldozers and dynamite to root remaining Arabs out of hillside positions along the winding mountain road, the spokesman said.

Once Arab resistance was broken, the engineers blasted through a series of stone barriers straddling the highway at the bottom of the gorge, 10 miles west of here. Convoys are set to start moving today.

The engineers had been ready for five days to clear the highway, the supply lifeline for 100,000 Jews in Jerusalem. Arabs and Jews have fought bitterly for control of the convoy route.

A Jewish agency spokesman said the first convoy in three weeks will travel this morning over the highway from Jerusalem to Tel Aviv. He added that a food convoy also is expected to head towards Jerusalem from Palestine's coastal plains.

The International Red Cross awaited a written request from Arab and Jewish leaders to convert Jerusalem into a neutral zone. A temporary cease fire, agreed to Saturday by the Jews and Arabs, now exists in the Holy City.

The British relinquish their Palestine mandate Friday at midnight.

Cairo dispatches said the Saudi Arabian legation announced last night that King Ibn Saud has decided that Saudi Arabia "will participate with other Arab countries in the military defense of Pales-

Doyle Denies Union Walked Off Job

Ironworkers Agent Says No One Authorized to Give Report

Samuel Doyle, business agent of the International Association of Bridge Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers, Local 417, Newburgh, said today that "There was no such thing as a walk-off," of employes of the S. A. Healy Co., at Neversink Monday.

Doyle said that nobody was authorized to make a statement for the union as to a walk-off on the New York city waterworks construction job. There is a wage dispute in progress he said, but the few men who stayed away from their jobs yesterday were not doing so because of an organized labor dispute.

A spokesman for the contractor said yesterday that of 22 men who were on the job Friday, 10 were still working yesterday and that of the other 12, six came in yesterday morning but refused to stay because their steward was not on the job.

Albert Melville, of Kingston, American Federation of Labor delegate to the Central Labor Council, who is employed on the job, yesterday quoted Fred "Whitey" Marks, foreman of the men to the effect that the iron workers "will not condone a violation of Article 8, New York State Labor Law," dealing with the prevailing rate of pay.

The prevailing rate for the region reportedly agreed upon by 27 contractors was said to be $2.75 an hour as of May 1. The rate for the Healy company was reported at $2.50 an hour.

Saugerties Girl Hurt by Auto in Runaway Dash

Sheila Hughes, 5, in Fair Condition at Hospital; Child Has Head, Back Injuries

Shelia Hughes, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes of Montgomery street, Saugerties, was injured Monday afternoon when she was struck by an auto which rolled down the Montgomery street hill from a spot where it had been parked.

The child, according to the Saugerties police, suffered head and back injuries and was reported in "fair" condition at the Benedictine Hospital today.

The sedan which struck her, owned by George Everett Orkola of Palenville, started rolling the police said, shortly after Orkola left it parked near the top of the hill between 2 and 2:30 p. m.

The sedan jumped the curb, struck a fire hydrant and knocked down a fence, the report said. The child was playing near her home when she was caught in the path of the run-away vehicle. She was taken to the hospital in Leyton's ambulance.

Sgt. Harold Mills of the Saugerties police investigated.

Rail Unions Comply With Court Order; Further Talks Held Likely

Hearing Scheduled

Judge Sets May 19 as Day for Review of Injunction Bid

Washington, May 11 (AP)—The railroads ran as usual under government direction today and the army lifted the emergency embargo on shipment of perishable goods.

The action restoring freight service to normal came after the government forced the engineers, firemen and switchmen to call off a strike set for this morning.

Eighty-eight lines had banned shipments of perishables during the week-end to prevent them from being stranded in event of a walkout. Many canceled the embargoes last night, however, in advance of the army order.

The rail unions called off the threatened strike in compliance with a court order from Justice T. Alan Goldsborough—the federal judge who twice fined John L. Lewis for contempt in mine strikes.

With the army in charge of rail operations, the White House withdrew from direct attempts to get the unions and management to settle their wage dispute.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said he assumed there would be further talks between the operators and brotherhoods. But he said presidential assistant John R. Steelman will not start any new conferences.

Steelman met for hours with both sides in futile efforts to get a settlement before President Truman seized the roads yesterday.

Ross said Steelman "will be available if either side asks his assistance." He added:

"He is ready to lend his good office in any attempt at a settlement that will permit the return of the railroads to private management."

Stumbling Blocks

There appeared to be plenty of stumbling blocks ahead.

Goldsborough's "temporary restraining order" (a type of injunction) expires May 19. The judge set a hearing for that date on the government's request for a longer injunction. The three unions will have their chance then to fight back.

There were other question marks too.

President Truman had to seize the railroads to ward off the strike. The army thus was in technical possession of the country's immense network of railroads.

How would it deal with the unions?

When could it turn the properties back to their owners without risking a new deadlock and an actual strike?

The 11-month-old dispute over wages and working rules is not settled. Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman had labored for days to persuade the railroad operators and the unions to come to an agreement.

But he failed and yesterday's seizure order was the result.

Secretary of the Army Royall planned to confer again some time today with the heads of the three unions; David B. Robertson of the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Alvanley Johnston of the Locomotive Engineers; and

Recognition Plan

Russia, Satellites to Give Nod to Jewish Folk in Palestine

Lake Success, May 11 (AP)—A high ranking United Nations delegate said today that Russia and her satellites plan to recognize the new Jewish nation in Palestine.

The delegate told the Associated Press that it is not certain yet whether such diplomatic recognition will be extended immediately upon proclamation of an independent country by the Zionists. He said the decision would be timed with developments and that some Latin-American republics would join in the move.

The Zionists have announced they will proclaim a new nation in their section of the Holy Land under the United Nations partition decision. The move is expected simultaneously with a British announcement of the end of the old League of Nations mandate at midnight Friday.

New Yorkers Give Guarantee They'll Stop Dewey Blitz

No Repetition of 1940 Will Occur, They Say: Ives Predicts Victory

Albany, N. Y., May 11 (AP)—Governor Dewey—bid for the Republican presidential nomination today was guaranteed "blitz-proof" support by New York's 97 national convention delegates.

Party chiefs made it clear there would be no repetition of 1940 when even Dewey-backing New York delegates joined a convention stampede to Wendell Willkie.

Eighty-five of the 97 delegates gathered here yesterday in an unprecedented strategy session, elected leaders and pledged unwavering support of Dewey.

In a unanimous resolution, they urged delegates from other states to "join with us in our determination to give to the nation the great leader which it needs."

State Chairman Glen R. Bedenkapp said the New York delegation was "right with Governor Dewey to the end—and the end is victory."

National Committeeman J. Russel Sprague, a Dewey strategist for more than a decade, was asked by a reporter what change there was of a defection from Dewey among the New York delegates.

He replied:

"What chance is there of a snowball in hell?"

Dewey, then New York county district attorney, led on the first ballot at the 1940 G.O.P. National Convention but lost ground thereafter. Willkie "blitzed" the convention when the forces of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Dewey stood each other off in a damaging deadlock.

Political sources note that Dewey went to the 1940 convention as a comparatively new figure in New York Republican circles. He seeks renomination this year as a two-term governor, the G.O.P.'s 1944 presidential standardbearer and the unchallenged leader of his party in New York.

The national convention delegation is expected to stick with Dewey as a unit, either until he is nominated or decides his cause is hopeless and throws his support elsewhere.

There was no "second choice" talk among the delegates yesterday, but best speculation has Dewey favorable to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan if he cannot win himself.

U. S. Senator Irving M. Ives, a delegate at-large, who attended yesterday's meeting, told newsmen "Mr. Dewey will be the next president."

"With due deference to my friends in the Senate and elsewhere", he added, "Governor Dewey by all odds is the best qualified man for the presidency."

Bedenkapp said he expected Dewey to be in Philadelphia for the convention, which begins June 21. In 1944, Dewey flew to the Chicago convention after he had been nominated.

Two of Dewey's big three campaign chiefs attended the meeting here, former State Chairman Edwin F. Jaeckle of Buffalo and Sprague. The third, Herbert Brownell, Jr., former national chairman, was in Washington.

The delegates elected William F. Bleakley of Yonkers as delegation chairman. Bleakley, a former state Supreme Court justice, was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor in 1936. He formally nominated Dewey for a second term as governor at the state convention at Saratoga Springs two years ago.

Mrs. Charles W. Weiss, Jr., of Rochester, was named vice-chairman and Harold L. Turk of Brooklyn, secretary.

A floor leader, probably Sprague, will be selected before the convention.

Sprague and Mrs. Weiss were re-elected national committee members, subject to national convention ratification.

Senator Ives and Miss Mary H. Donlon, state deputy industrial commissioner, were chosen New York's representatives on the convention resolutions (platform) committee.

Jaeckle was named to the credentials committee, Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck to the rules committee and Miss Ruth M. Miner, executive deputy secretary of state, to the committee on permanent organization.

Says Animals Are Due

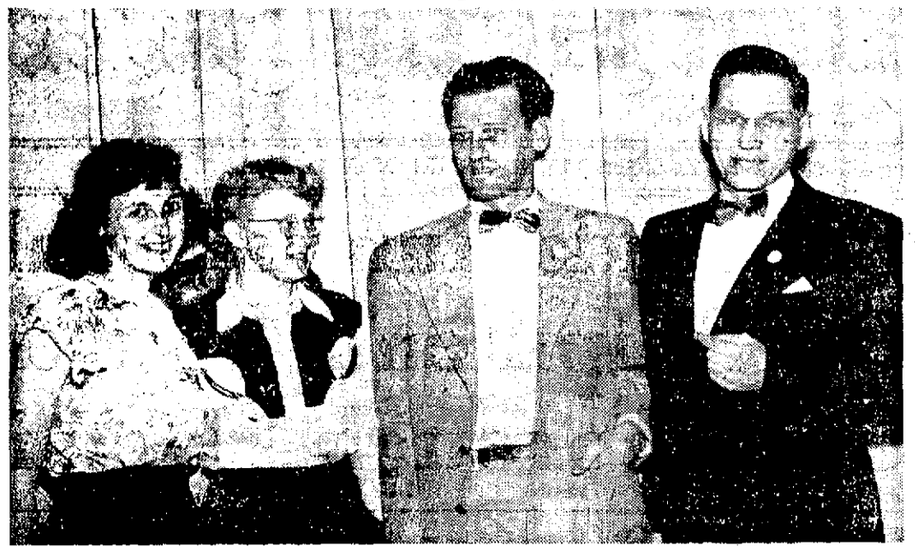

San Francisco, May 11 (AP)—The freighter President Grant will dock today with what its operators said is one of the largest consignments of jungle animals loaded into one ship since the days of Noah. The ship is bringing from Siam 2,000 birds, 200 monkeys, 100 cobras, boa constrictors and other snakes, 20 Gibbon apes, seven elephants, six bears, four Siamese golden cats and a pair of hoopoe birds. The American President Lines said America had never before received any hoopoe birds. Some 50,000 worms were air-expressed from California to the Orient to feed the hoopoes on their three-week cruise. They were unable to describe them.

Fines Are Levied In Grape Juice Case

Syracuse, N. Y., May 11 (AP)—The Army Packing Company of Utica and two officers were fined a total of $1,400 in U. S. District Court yesterday in connection with improper labeling of grape juice.

The company, which has been dissolved, and the officers pleaded guilty before Judge Stephen W. Brennan to a charge of adulterating grape juice, using artificial coloring in a grape drink and shipping the products in Inter-State Commerce.

Similar charges against Lil's Food Products Company of Utica, also dissolved, were dismissed.

The officers of the two firms were listed as Louis Blumenthal of (112 McLoughlin street,) and Cove, L. I., president, and Ralph Blumenthal (1231 Mohawk street,) Utica, secretary-treasurer.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Andrew J. Gilick charged the army concern shipped a number of cases of a product called "Southern Grape Drink" to New Jersey. He said labels did not show coloring had been added or that the drink included a chemical preservative.

St. Joseph's Church at the corner of Main and Wall streets was consecrated by His Grace, the Most Reverend John M. Farley, Archbishop of New York, on May 10, 1908, forty years ago.

Archbishop Farley was assisted in the consecration services by the Rev. William Donaldson, D.D., of the Church of the Assumption, Brooklyn; the Rev. James V. Lewis, his secretary; the Rev. Peter F. Ginnevan of Tuxedo, and the Rev. Daniel M. Dougherty, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's.

The Archbishop's party consisted of the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Patrick J. Hayes, Chancellor of the Diocese, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Joseph F. Mooney, V.G., the Very Rev. Daniel J. Quinn, S.J., president of Fordham University, the Rev. William Paine of Rochester and the Rev. James V. Lewis, secretary to the archbishop.

St. Joseph's parish was established in 1868 with the purchase of a hall at the corner of Fair and Franklin streets, where the Rev. James J. Dougherty celebrated the first Mass with the Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn as preacher on Sunday, September 21, 1868.

So rapidly did the parish grow that the old building soon became too small to accommodate its members and the former Dutch Reformed Church at the corner of Main and Wall streets, which at the beginning of the Civil War had been used as a drill room and armory, was purchased by Father Coyle from General Gates and John C. Brodhead for $10,000.

On July 26, 1869, this church building was dedicated to the service of God, after having been extensively remodeled and improved. Father Dougherty continued as pastor of the church for nearly 20 years and was succeeded in March 1880, by the Rev. Edward J. Conroy.

The Rev. Edwin M. Sweeney assumed charge of the parish in May, 1891, and remained its leader until 1901, at which time the Rev. E. J. McCue, pastor at the time of the consecration of the new building in 1908, took charge.

CENSORSHIP BILL

During the war, the American press operated under purely voluntary censorship, even though some of its members possessed information that was vital to the nation's security and the success of its armed forces.

Now, in time of peace, the House Rules Committee has approved a proposal to impose censorship on certain information, and to punish a reporter who violates that censorship with a $1,000 fine and a year's imprisonment. The author of this piece of legislation is Rep. Clare Hoffman of Michigan.

The censorship provision is part of a bill which grew out of the charges against Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the National Bureau of Standards. The Thomas Committee wanted a letter from F.B.I. Chief J. Edgar Hoover pertaining to Dr. Condon's loyalty investigation. President Truman refused the request.

The bill would permit a congressional committee to demand any confidential information by a majority vote of its members, countersigned by the Speaker of the House or the President of the Senate. At the same time, a majority vote could classify any information a committee possessed as confidential.

This is both unwise and unrealistic. The custom of "leaking" information to the press from closed sessions of committees or conferences is not only old and accepted, but generally valuable. For example, the public was kept informed through "leaks" of the progress of some of the Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco Conference meetings that produced the United Nations. And the Yalta agreement on the veto in the yet unborn U. N. was also made public through a "leak."

As for Congress itself, a disclosure of progress in the private hearings on a bill can be valuable to the members as well as to the public. A running summary of "confidential" proceedings in the press lets the committee members know the public reaction to what they are doing. This gives them some idea of the sources of support, trends of opposition, and so on, that they would not otherwise have until the bill was delivered from its vacuum of secrecy.

But, most of all, this bill of Mr. Hoffman's, if passed, would set a dangerous precedent of concealment that is out of place in a democracy. Every Congress, unfortunately, seems to have its share of stupid, bigoted, and "kept" members. This power of censorship would apply to them, if enough were on one committee to exercise it, as well as to the responsible statesmen.

The members of Congress are elected by the people to make laws for the conduct of the people's government. They are engaged in the public business and, with few exceptions, should operate publicly. When their activities in time of peace concern the national security—as perhaps in the field of atomic energy—we think that the press can be trusted to safeguard that security.

"The press," says Mr. Hoffman, "has no all-inclusive right and privilege of disclosing information that is detrimental to the country." It might be answered that Congress has no all-inclusive right and privilege to withhold information from the country at the caprice of some of its members.

We trust that the whole House will make short work of Mr. Hoffman's would-be legal sanction of further secrecy and irresponsibility in government.

PREJUDICE IN AFRICA

Race prejudice in the Union of South Africa is to be studied by psychologists of the University of California. The South African white population is almost submerged in a sea of other races, numbering less than a quarter of the Union's 11,000,000 population. The Bantu or black population is in an absolute majority, and perhaps in consequence is but little removed from slavery. The whites live in terror of a race war, and may well have grounds for their fears.

Not the South African natives alone are discriminated against. There are over 200,000 Hindus, who, though they belong to the white race, are treated as if they were Negroes. Injustice to these Hindus stirred Mahatma Gandhi, then a successful lawyer in South Africa. He was imprisoned for his championship of his race, and thus launched on his long career of freedom-seeking for India and the Hindus.

If the California psychologists can find a way to minimize the cruelest forms of race prejudice, it will be an epoch-making achievement.

NEWSPRINT AND ERP

Lord Rothermere recently raised the question of more newsprint for Great Britain. Certainly one of the most serious shortages in all the world is that of paper. If the truth is to be known to the people, there should be a great many newspapers, magazines and all sorts of vehicles of expression. The shortage of newsprint gives a tremendous advantage to those who are plentifully supplied, particularly governments, and handicaps those in the opposition. Lord Rothermere raised sharply the issue that if we wish to agitate for our theories of a free society in Europe, then the European newspapers, particularly the British, must have more newsprint.

Unfortunately, most of the newsprint today comes from Canada—one country. Newsprint from Finland and Scandinavia is scarce and the price is foul. Even the Canadian price is out of line and in the United States some newspapers are forced to buy in the Black Market at impossible prices to keep going at all. Some of the British newspapers own mills in Canada but they have no dollars to pay for what they get there. They criticize the American newspapers for using too much, but it seems that that is immaterial, for their complaint thus far has only been that they lack the dollars to buy in Canada. Now they expect to get the dollars from Paul Hoffman, head of ECA, alias ERP.

In a period of shortage, therefore, it will be the American dollars, taken from our taxes, that will produce an increased newsprint scarcity for the American newspaper. The increase for Great Britain from Canada and Newfoundland will be 33,000 tons per year, paid for out of ERP dollar balances, and while it is likely that American newspapers may not complain too much about that, there is a fear that this is only a beginning, with other ERP countries making similar demands. Americans would like to know precisely how these dollar balances, which we are handing to Europe as a gift, will be used.

In an official statement, Paul Hoffman "disclosed that figures obtained from official Canadian sources indicate newsprint production in Canada and Newfoundland during 1948 will be approximately 4,875,000 tons, of which 285,000 tons will be consumed in Canada. Shipments to the United States are expected to be 3,960,000 tons. The proposed shipments to the United Kingdom from Canada and Newfoundland will be about three per cent of the Dominion's output for the next fiscal year. . . ."

It seems that much of this problem could be solved if the trade between Great Britain and Scandinavia could be stimulated by an exchange of British coal for Scandinavian pulpwood. England has a machine capacity to produce between 900,000 and 1,000,000 tons of newsprint annually. Of this capacity, about 700,000 tons is lying idle, because the British are unable to purchase pulpwood, which used to come mostly from Russia, Poland and Scandinavia.

Before the war, Great Britain used 1,325,000 tons, of which they imported 375,000 from Canada and Newfoundland. If they put their present idle machinery to work, they could easily fill that amount. Today the British only consume 325,000 tons of newsprint and the impression is general that that reduction in consumption, while the machinery is idle, is not unrelated to socialist politics.

They could obtain the pulpwood from Canada and Newfoundland for their newsprint mills at a cheaper cost than newsprint from the same countries. Thus far, the British government has not encouraged the import of pulpwood. In fact, Sir Eric Bowater, largest manufacturer of newsprint paper in the world, so admitted on March 11, 1948, in the annual report to his company.

It will be a serious mistake for Great Britain or any ERP country to use American money to compete with American newspapers for the supply of this essential but scarce commodity. It will create suspicion over all ERP arrangements. It is starting off to put the idle British mills to work. Why should any mills be idle when there is such a shortage in this commodity and when pulpwood is available? Now that dollars can be used—our dollars—they ought to buy the wood and let their own machines produce the paper they truly require.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

MORE EXERCISE, LESS REST IN ARTHRITIS

One of the suggestions now given to elderly individuals is that they should not rest too much, because too much rest allows the joints and muscles to become stiffened and the individual really likes to rest instead of being up and about using mind and body.

That many patients with rheumatism should not rest so much is suggested by Drs. George M. Piersol and Joseph L. Hollander, University of Pennsylvania, in "Archives of Physical Medicine."

In the thousands of cases of early and late chronic infection (rheumatoid) of arthritis treated at the Army Rheumatic Disease Centers, it was found that relief from symptoms occurred at least as quickly on exercise to the limit of the patient's ability to withstand pain as on bed rest, and there were fewer cases of shrunken or wasted muscles.

Drs. Piersol and Hollander state that the highest degree of exercise-rest balance is the ratio between the greatest amount of exercise the patient can perform without excessive fatigue or pain persisting for some time after the exercise, and the shortest period of rest needed before the exercise is again taken.

To get the exercise-rest balance established, some of the steps used are:

1. The physician in charge of the case should first convince the patient of the need for exercise and the dangers of over-rest.

2. The patients should be shown that exercise, heat and other physical measures are as important as the medical or drug treatment.

3. General exercise, in addition to the special exercise for the rheumatic joint or muscles, is given up to the point of fatigue.

4. Local corrective exercises are designed to fit the needs of the part. Muscle setting, muscle stretching, coordinated muscle action, and working the muscles to their widest extent form the usual treatment. Increasing pain, spasm and fatigue are warning signs of sufficiency.

5. The well-known training principle of gradual increase in amount and duration of exertion is used. Mild exertion many times A day is better than extreme exertion once or twice.

"I Am Undisturbed — Giddap!"

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Without prejudice, I find Felix Frankfurter fighting on my side against collusion by the Department of Justice in cases involving political proteges of the Democratic Party.

In brief review, I have plainly set forth reasons to believe that the department refrained from doing its best in the enforcement of laws against unions and unioneers. Such defendants are political partners in crime of the department, brigands licensed by the party in power to rob and extort, on percentage agreement.

Specific cases have been cited and discussed in which the department obviously favored crooks whom it was supposed to prosecute. Since the 'thirties, when tax cases against the Huey Long gang were abandoned in a deal quaintly called the second Louisiana purchase, the prosecution of members of the sordid family of the New Deal has been more affectionate than hostile. The punishment has been scant where there was any penalty at all for crimes done. As a disgraceful case in point, I give you the lenient treatment of the union but, in the dark of the moon, were let loose untimely. The jail delivery of the last batch of these Chicago cutthroats frustrated one prosecution which was vigorously done. Here, Boris Kostelanetz caught his verbiage and caged them away, but political impulses from the department of justice clicked the locks in Leavenworth when they had done their minimum terms, and out they walked. Meanwhile, political prisoners who had shown irreverence for Roosevelt had been passed by long after they had become legally eligible for parole. This means that the Department of Justice will protect criminal friends of the party and punish its political enemies.

This is not a figure of speech. I have a persistent way of inching up to objectives. My charge that the department is doing this will be vindicated just as my charge that Roosevelt was a common swindler in the grand jury sense of the word was proved in the Hartford case. My charge of limited devotion to the Bill of Rights in the principles of Henry Wallace and of more spectacular vagaries in this pietistical mountebank was resented with Bellows of intellectual rage by Jim Crow liberals who themselves haven't had the moral stamina to withstand his incoherent prattle. They don't understand him, to be sure, but they are sure his message is virtuous, perhaps divine. Another example, not of clairvoyance but of initiative, dealt with the queer editorial practices of the New York Herald Tribune, ostensibly a Republican newspaper, last winter. Within three months thereafter Joseph Barnes, who dominated the paper's political and, in the sense of many authentic Republicans, polluted it, "bought" a part interest in the journalistic monstrosity known as Marshall Field's thing, the most consistent agitator of racial and religious sensitiveness and fury in the United States.

Accustomed to standing alone I was neither comforted nor angry at an intrusion when Frankfurter kicked up a nasty public row in the Supreme Court hearing on that portion of the Taft-Hartley Law which forbids unions to spend slush funds to corrupt elections. I called that one, defying a threat of contempt. I was no more right for Frankfurter's joining me than I was when I stood alone challenging the department's conduct of the case and despising the opinion of Judge Ben Moore. I wish, however, that since Frankfurter did concur in my suspicions and started to say something aloud he had had the courage to say it through and damn the gavel that stopped him.

By permitting Chief Justice to choke him off, Justice Frankfurter left the country to its suspicions. He seemed to imply that the Department of Justice acted in collusion with the defendant C.I.O. and its president, Philip Murray, in rushing the case to the Supreme Court for a showdown. That was what they would have desired. He seemed to me to imply, further, that he anticipated an arbitrary political decision by the Supreme Court in favor of the defendants. So do I. Speed was important so that the C.I.O. could confidently throw millions into the presidential and congressional campaigns. The law itself became the defendant in place of the C.I.O. and Murray. Friendless before the court, defended by its political enemy, the Taft-Hartley Act had little chance.

Not all citizens are naive enough to believe that this judge was innocently plucked from Charleston, W. Va., by the personal selection of Chief Justice Vinson to come to Washington for a spell of lawing and the incidental pleasures of the ego which the capital affords. Mr. Vinson knew this man. Let him who will believe that the case fell to Judge Moore by the luck of the draw.

The country can't know, by his unfinished blurt, to what length Frankfurter might have gone, sore as he was. We are told that he said from the bench that the C.I.O. had "the utmost co-operation from the government." He may have referred to the government's own admission in the trial that the section under attack was, indeed, unconstitutional but justifiably so.

For why should the government pay lawyers to plead guilty of violating the Constitution in defense of a client so charged?

Judge Moore gave us an ivory tower job in violation of all practical knowledge of the conduct of unions and particularly of one of the worst autocracies in the whole anti-American union movement, The United Mine workers. He knew that union publications do not, as he professed to believe, reflect the will or the opinion of the majority of the members. He knew that in the United Mine Workers, a fat client of the law firm in which he formerly was a partner, all decisions are made by John L. Lewis and that 70 per cent of the members are governed by satraps assigned from the throne.

Mr. Vinson's personal alarm and suppression of the discussion almost by physical force is easily understood. To suppress the facts, some of which would have implicated him in the farce, he choked off Frankfurter's questions in precise compliance with a rule of the court, which the court itself could waive at will in pursuit of information. He thought the record showed all the information it should. A little more and he would have been on the stand himself explaining why he picked Judge Moore.

White House Denials Do Not Give All of Truth Regarding Efforts With Russia

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 11—The American people are entitled to know all of the truth about the efforts of Russia to reach an understanding with the United States. The denials from the White House issued through Senator Tydings over the week-end do not present all of the truth. There was such an effort on the initiative of a high Russian official and the facts are well known in the Department of State and among certain committees on Capitol Hill.

The Maryland senator made a radio speech over the week-end saying he had asked President Truman about reports that Russia suggested a conference between Stalin and the President just prior to the Czechoslovak crisis and that the President answered with a categorical "no." Mr. Tydings continued:

"The President said there was absolutely not one iota of truth in the report. He said that neither Mr. Stalin nor anyone else representing Russia had made any suggestion to him or to the American government."

Technically speaking, the President gave Senator Tydings an accurate though ambiguous answer. It is true the approach wasn't made to Mr. Truman and because it was unofficial and informal it might also be argued that according to diplomatic forms the approach was not made "to the American government."

Mr. Tydings went on to say in his speech that "many of us have heard this manufactured rumor about Russia wanting to meet with the President to work out a solution of European and world problems. We have heard it said that Mr. Truman would not confer with Russia. This is a sample of the propaganda that unfortunately confuses our well-meaning people."

But what are the facts?

Late in January of this year Robert Murphy, who occupies the high post of political adviser to General Clay, commander-in-chief of American forces in Germany, received at his home in Berlin a Russian official who serves in the opposite post as the top political adviser to the Russian commander-in-chief in Berlin.

The Russian official arrived between eight and nine o'clock and stayed until two in the morning. The initiative was entirely that of the Russian official. All manner of subjects relating to outstanding issues between the two countries were canvassed. During the evening, the Russian official suggested that President Truman and Marshal Stalin meet in Moscow. Mr. Murphy replied that Mr. Truman had expressed himself often as opposed to a trip to Moscow and would gladly meet Stalin in Washington, whereupon the Russian official stated that this could not be arranged but suggested a third meeting place, namely Stockholm.

At the time of the conference, the Russian official hinted at certain steps that would be forthcoming unless an understanding could be reached. It is believed he was referring to steps subsequently taken in Czechoslovakia and Finland. It was hinted that further exploration of the issues might make unnecessary such steps as were being contemplated but which were not mentioned.

At the time of the meeting at Mr. Murphy's house, the Marshall Plan was very much in the public eye. It is conceivable that the President and Secretary Marshall felt that to engage in a conference might be misunderstood as a weakening of American policy or as a willingness to make concessions that could not be made. Whatever the reasons for American rejection of Russia's initiative, the fact is that the incident happened and was not just manufactured by "well-meaning" persons.

Mr. Murphy is an experienced diplomat of the American foreign service and he made a complete report on the affair and supplemented it with oral conversations at the Department of State shortly afterward when he came to Washington. It is believed that Mr. Murphy's report was not relished and there is a rumor that he was punished for his fervor in recommending that the matter be pursued. He was not permitted subsequently to take the top level role that he deserved at a London conference on the economic planning for Germany's three zones.

At a time when the American people are being asked to submit to another draft law, it falls with ill grace for the administration to suppress the facts about what seems to have been a Russian effort to reach an understanding with the United States. Certainly the Tydings-Truman conversation constitutes a technical denial. The whole truth should be revealed even if the administration for good reasons of its own decided not to accept the Russian offer or chose for the sake of expediency to regard it as "without significance," or as likely to prove futile anyway. Evasion begets distrust. Candor begets confidence.

Science Has Way To Fight Polio, But Lacks 'Garden'

Minneapolis, May 11 (AP)—A New York bacteriologist said today science now has the means of developing good "seeds" for a vaccine against infantile paralysis—but lacks a proper "garden" in which to grow them.

Dr. Herald Cox of the Lederle Laboratories Division, American Cyanamid Co., Pearl River, N. Y., said that a technique is in hand for purifying strains of infantile paralysis virus to the point where they could conceivably be used to produce a protective vaccine—but no satisfactory laboratory means has yet been found to grow the viruses in quantity.

He said monkeys offered the best bet to date for growing "polio" virus, but that the quantities produced were relatively small compared with those of influenza virus produced in fluids within a hatching hen's egg. So far, it has been impossible to grow polio virus in a hatching egg.

"Our solution to polio will come," he told a reporter, "when we can grow the polio virus in sufficient quantity in animals other than the monkey—possibly in the chick embryo within the hatching egg.

"If we could grow infantile paralysis virus, in its various strains, in a readily-available material like the chick embryo, we'd really have something practical in the way of a vaccine material.

Difficulties Are Cited

"Monkeys not only produce relatively small quantities of virus, but they are expensive and sometimes dificult to procure and maintain for research."

(The principle of any vaccine is to inject either a dose of living, modified active virus or a dose of completely killed virus so that the body will build up resistance against a subsequent attack of the disease.)

Here to attend the annual meeting of the society of American bacteriologists, Dr. Cox made the statements in commenting on a report made last week by a team of polio researchers of the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Cyril S. Stulberg of that university, and a group of colleagues, announced that they had purified a strain of human infantile paralysis virus to the extent that 99.2 per cent of non-virus material associated with it was eliminated.

They also disclosed that they were undertaking studies looking toward the development of a blood test for that particular strain, and of a vaccine to provide protection against it.

New York, May 11 (AP)—The "American Mother of the Year" of 1948, Mrs. Helen G. Hines of Springfield, Ill., was guest of honor yesterday at a tea attended by 350 members of New York church groups.

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish church organizations representing 70 churches in the New York area attended the reception at the Marble Collegiate Church.

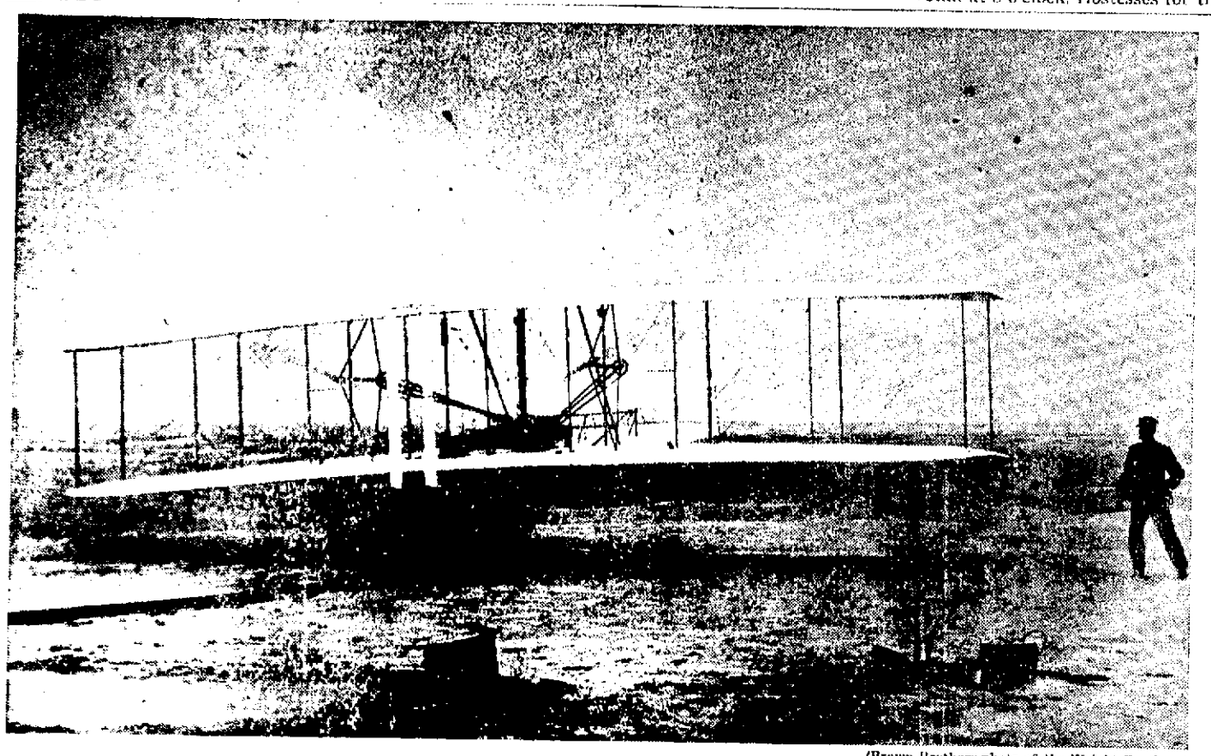

Mrs. Hines, in a brief speech, said religious activities have taken second place only to her home in her own life. She has been a Methodist Sunday school teacher for 40 years.

The mother of the year is a 60-year-old mother of ten. She was named to the title by the Golden Rule Foundation, and is spending 11 days in New York.

Chosen by Queen

In 1858, Queen Victoria chose Ottawa, then a city of 20,000, as the seat of government of Upper and Lower Canada. It became capital of the New Dominion in 1867.

The total enrollment of Sunday schools in the United States is estimated at nearly 23 million.

(Brown Brothers photo of the Wright Brothers' first flight, Kittyhawk, N. C., December, 1903.)

Nothing ventured... nothing gained!

No one guaranteed the Wright Brothers that their "box kite" airplane would fly... but it did! No one could be certain that the years of planning, the hopes and dreams, the effort, the hard-earned dollars would pay off in achievement... but they did!

Once again, man's willingness to venture had paved the way for progress.

In a free land such as ours everyone plays a part in one venture or another. Some contribute ideas—men like the Wrights, Edison, Bell, Steinmetz, De Forest. Some carry out ideas—the managers and workers. Some provide the necessary money for tools, factories, raw materials and wages—the investors.

Of all these, the role of the investor is least known, least understood. The individual who sets aside part of his income for investment in industry is but one of millions of similar risk-takers, scattered through all walks of life, unorganized and unrecognized. Yet, without the venture dollars provided by these thrifty citizens, the nation's production of goods could not increase, its standard of living could not rise.

The New York Stock Exchange, as the nation's principal market place for investors, believes there is urgent need for a governmental policy—particularly a tax policy—that gives every individual an opportunity to save, and an incentive to put his surplus dollars to work for the benefit of all our people.

Pearls Take

A Fashionable Fling at 'New Look'

Stylized Ensemble

Lapel Tassel

Dazzling Belt

Pendant Bracelet

Earring Wreath

New York—(NEA)—The chaste little strand of pearls is having the fashion fling of its life dressed up in the "new look" for spring.

In the designing hands of Madame Majeska — the creative talents of this famed artist, decorator and stylist have found a new outlet in the jewelry field — pearls take on every kind of decorative effect that can be strung on a string.

Designer Majeska gives the neglected little pearl color, size, rondel and Baroque shapes, dynamic motion and the glittering companionship of jewels and stylizer glass flower beads.

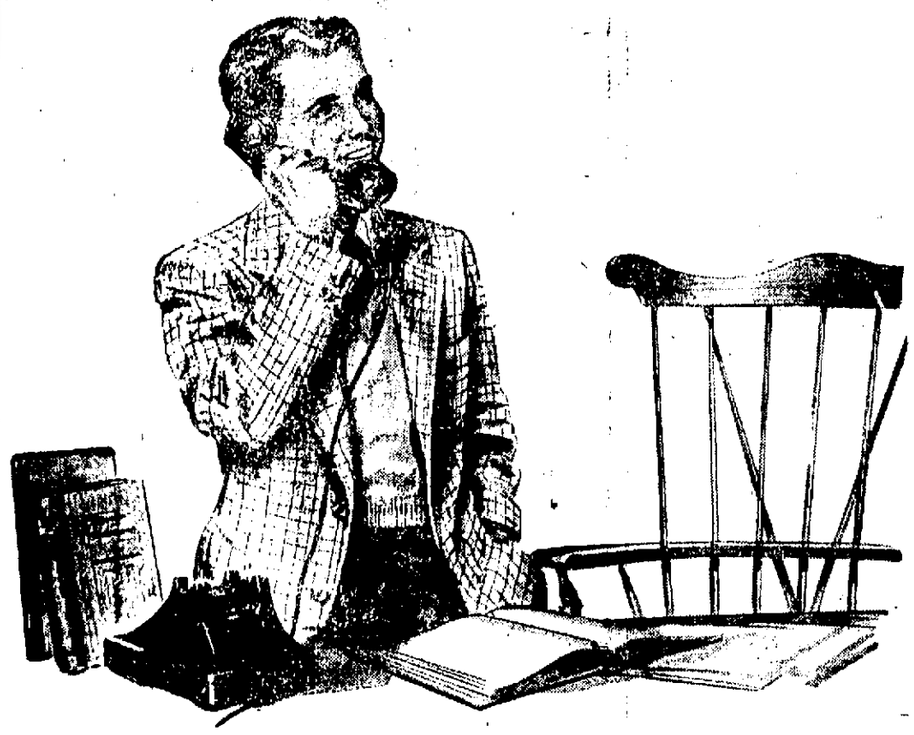

Bright lily-shaped beads of opaque glass, for example, blossom from long pearl lariats that tie at the throat and whoop up the attractions of a pearl necklace. These stylized wrap-arounds of pearls are ensembled with bracelets and earrings, such as those shown upper right. Other spectacular earring designs owe their implicit look of precious jewelry to tiny pearl-and-rhinestone wreaths set in fluted circles of plated gold, an example of which is shown lower right.

(Hellar Deltah Co.)

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

The familiar pearl necklace grows this spring into the 30-inch belt, center right, which will encircle a neck twice, a tiny waistline once. This "new look" dazzler with ball ends of larger plastic pearls fastens with a diamond-shaped clipper pin.

Pearl tassels are Majeska's pendant pets. She suspends these pearly sprays from necklaces, bracelets and lapel pins, all of which sparkle with make-believe jewels. Examples are the bracelet with rhinestone clasp, lower left, and the showy lapel ornament, upper left, which combines a rhinestone-studded filigree pin with a pendant tassel of tiny seed pearls.

"I'll sign off now, Dave— let's not tie up this line any longer"

That's right. When you're using a party-line, someone else on the line may want to make a call, or someone may be trying to reach you or your neighbor.

A telephone line is exclusively yours while you're using it, but folks like yourself are thoughtful enough to realize that others on the party-line have an equal right to a fair share in its use.

Yes, when each party on the line does his best to keep conversations from being too long, and to allow a little time between calls, everyone on the line enjoys better telephone service.

Many of our customers would like to have a better grade of service than is now generally available—such as an individual or a two-party line.

Health for All

Outlook for T.B. Patient

The person who finds out he has tuberculosis usually bombards the doctor with questions concerning his future. This is a perfectly natural reaction. After the first rude shock of learning he has the disease, he wants to know if he can be cured, how long it will take and if he will ever be able to work again.

Tuberculosis can be cured but it is the easiest to cure when it is caught early. One of the best means of finding TB early is by a chest X-ray. It is encouraging to know that many more people recover from tuberculosis than die of it. The ranks of those winning victories over the disease increase constantly.

The chances of recovery from tuberculosis are much better today than a few decades ago because of greater knowledge about the disease and its treatment and also because more cases are being found in the early stage through the X-raying of large population groups. Yet tuberculosis is still a stubborn and powerful foe.

The person who contracts the disease has a full time task to get well. Tuberculosis works steadily against the patient 24 hours a day, every day. So recovery means the patient must work even harder than the disease, with no "time out." This "work" on the patient's part consists mainly of complete bed rest, keeping as untroubled and hopeful a frame of mind as possible and following the doctor's orders to the letter. There is absolutely no short-cut to cure and no substitute for continuous rest, both mental and physical.

No two cases of tuberculosis are alike. It is impossible for the doctor to say how long it will take to cure any patient. As periodic examinations of the patient are made and as treatment progresses, it may be possible for the doctor to express an opinion. The patient should make up his mind to stay in the hospital until the doctor says it is safe for him to leave. If he leaves against medical advice, he is inviting future breakdowns.

The wise patient is the one who gives full cooperation to the doctor, who allows sufficient time for a complete cure and who lives sensibly after his discharge from the sanatorium.

As far as work after cure is concerned, the tuberculosis patient has every chance of going back to useful living and financial independence. Many return to their old jobs when the work does not involve strenuous physical exertion. Others train during treatment for work that will not tax their physical strength to the extent their old jobs did and they often obtain better paying jobs than they held previously.

Costs Cut Profits

Albany, N. Y., May 11 (AP)—More than $123,000,000 in eggs and poultry were sold from New York farms last year. The State Department of Agriculture reported yesterday that egg sales amounted to $92,090,000 and chicken sales, $30,923,000. An 11 per cent increase in chicken sales over 1946 was more than offset by increased poultry feed costs, wages and operating expenses, the agency said.

She Told Him

The following note, written in a good hand, with pen and ink, was picked up the other day:

"Unfaithful One: Saturday night you told me you loved me, and Sunday afternoon I saw you going into that movie with a blonde! Who is she—the brazen thing? And you too, double-crosser, liber, prevaricator, if you think I care, you are just crazy. If I were a man I would not be seen with such a low-haired know-nothing. Her hair is peroxide, anyhow, and the war paint she had on would sink a battleship. I'm giving you the air; so peddle your fish and don't bother me. The sight of you gives me a pain—you and your stale creampuff.

Wife: "It says here in the paper that the man was shot by his wife at close range."

Hubby: "Then there must have been powder marks on the coat he was wearing."

Wife: "Yeah, that's why she shot him!"

Tit for Tat

"I wish you'd stop your talking shop."
Complained the wife of Jack;
"It's just to balk your shopping talk."
Her husband answered back.

Patient: I suppose the operation will be dangerous, doctor?

Doctor: Nonsense! You couldn't buy a dangerous operation for 40 dollars.

Teacher: Give me a sentence containing a direct object.

Junior: Teacher, you're beautiful.

Teacher: What's the object?

Junior: A good report card.

But mostly be true to your heart.

The assemblyman asked the government to intercede because the lines operate in interstate transportation.

Lions Club Party For Blind Given

The Lions Club party for the blind this year had the largest attendance of any given to date by the club, it was reported following the annual event in Temple Emanuel, Abeel street, May 4.

The month of May has been decided upon as the regular month for the affair, according to Roger Baer, chairman of the Blind and Sight Conservation Committee of the club. The party, which is a major party of the club, was given in December or January, but because of weather conditions then, May was selected.

Lion Clifford Rall, principal of M.J.M., opened the party with a word of welcome. Theodore Lee was acting master of ceremonies, introduced Mrs. Henry Singer and Roger Baer who played two piano duet selections, followed by a group of accordion medleys played by Howard Houghtaling.

Lion Warren Smith conducted a quiz program. The guest speaker was the Rev. Arthur Oudemool of the First Dutch Reformed Church who spoke on "Timely Living." Roger Baer then demonstrated the Solovox and explained the general construction of the instrument to the blind.

Each blind person was given a 26-pound box of food stuffs packed by Lion John De Gasperis of the Governor Clinton Market. They also received a needle threader which is regarded as one of the greatest needs of a blind person. Refreshments were served by the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel.

It was mentioned that many of the blind people are in position to work at factories and shops where no dangerous machines would physically harm them during working hours. Mr. Baer stated that four typewriters, canes, Readers Digests in Braille, funds for glasses, song books and Bibles in Braille have been given to blind people this year. Since the greatest demands is for typewriters, Mr. Baer requests the people of Kingston and Ulster county to send the Lions Club typewriters that are not in use, so they may meet their great demand. A standard keyboard is necessary. Mr. Baer also stated that this work is conducted through the purchase of Blind and Sight Conservation Stamps. All the blind people and their friends were given transportation by members of the Kingston Lions Club.

Good Taste Today

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

"FAMILY" FIRST CHOICE AS WEDDING ATTENDANTS

The following describes a not unusual situation: "What can be done in a case like ours? The bride has two sisters of suitable age to take part in the wedding; the groom also has one sister who qualifies and the bride has a half dozen very good friends all eagerly waiting the word! And yet she wanted to have only two bridesmaids and a maid of honor. We really are up against it."

The obvious answer to this is to choose her eldest sister as maid of honor and her other sister and the sister of the groom as bridesmaids. This will eliminate the difficulty of choosing from among six eager friends. She might perhaps have a sufficiently large bridal table to include her six friends.

Question of Payment

Dear Mrs. Post: How can I take an older couple to the theatre and to somewhere very nice for dinner, without noticeably paying their way—which I am sure the husband would mind. They have been most kind to me over a long period of time and while I am staying with them next time I'd like to get seats for the theatre and also to take them to dinner. But how can I handle the paying question? I have no charge accounts anywhere in their city.

Answer: When you invite them to dine and go to the theatre with you, they certainly will not belittle your right to be hostess. You, of course, get your tickets for the theatre ahead of time, and you can also order dinner ahead of time—and pay for it, including the waiter's tip.

Which of Two Children Inherts Ring?

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me what is done in a situation of this kind? The mother passed on, leaving a beautiful diamond ring. To whom should it be given: The grown daughter or the son's wife? The son is the older of the two.

Answer: In the lack of any expressed wish of the mother, the daughter surely has first right to it, since she certainly has greater sentiment for it than the daughter-in-law could have.

Robert Craft Praised As Guest Conductor

Reviews in the New York papers applauded the guest conducting of Robert Craft at the chamber music concert of The Wolff Players Friday night. Mr. Craft is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Craft, Johnston avenue, and made his debut as a conductor last year.

The Herald-Tribune's review written by Arthur V. Berger said in part, "The excellent close of the final concert with Robert Craft brilliantly conducting Stravinsky's 'L'Histoire du Soldat,' was such that one may overlook the season's indiscretions as growing pains . . . Mr. Craft's performance of 'L'Histoire' was the best of those heard hereabouts in recent years. Some of the understandable nervousness he showed when he first conducted here earlier this season, was all gone, and he gave full values to Stravinsky's lively and ingenious rhythms, sharply-edged sonorities, and masterly balance of colors."

Three Youths Booked On Burglary Charges

New York, May 11 (AP)—Three youths were booked for burglary last night after they allegedly broke into a Park department building at Pelham Bay Park, the Bronx, and took about $25 worth of candy and ice cream.

Arrested and booked for burglary were James Glass, 17, a student at Christopher Columbus High School, the Bronx, who lives at 3435 Bruckner Boulevard, the Bronx; Philip Paltine 16, of 3279 Radcliff, the Bronx, a student at Haaren High, Manhattan; and James Rhodes, 16, of 1437 Outlook avenue, the Bronx, a student at Evander Childs High, the Bronx.

Detective Edwin Pisce of the Bronx precinct station said he and a patrolman surprised the three near the building after they had broken in its door with an iron pipe.

Detective Pisce said the boys, whose pockets were filled with candy, admitted breaking into the building and gorging themselves on ice cream and candy. Police in a radio report sighted the boys at the building about 10:30 p. m. police said.

Y.W.C.A. Sketch Class Holds Annual Exhibit This Week; Opened with Tea Monday Afternoon

The annual exhibit by the Y.W.C.A. Sketch Class was opened for the week at a tea Monday afternoon at the Y.W. The paintings and drawings are hung in the rooms on the second floor of the building and so arranged that they may be viewed at their best advantage. The public is invited to see the exhibit any day this week. Miss Emily Hoysradt is the instructor.

Much improvement is shown this year among those who have been members of the class for several seasons. Again some of the familiar views are among the outstanding points in the show. Miss Elsie Phillips has a stone house in Old Hurley as well as a group of New England street scenes that are interesting. Miss R. Miriam Halloran has pictured the Asokan Dam from Glenford Mountains; Mrs. Helen Terwilliger the Van Aken Homestead in Port Ewen; Miss Agnes Scott Smith a red barn at Bearsville and skiing and Miss Ruth N. Smith, Westkill Mountains in Autumn, and Miss Sally Gallagher, autumn landscape in Old Hurley.

Miss Margaret Schuetz's water color painting of flowers is interesting as are the arrangement of zinnias by Mrs. Herbert Swarthout, Jr., and marigolds by Miss Olive Kyer.

Miss Gallagher also did a marine which probably was her best for the year and Miss Dorothy DuMond chose heirloom china for a still life.

Portraits also are interesting this year with a group of sketches of the family by Mrs. Charles Arnold and a portrait of William F. Murray by Mrs. Murray.

Each member of the class has several exhibits. Oils, water colors, charcoal are the mediums used.

Members of the board who assisted at the tea by pouring were Mrs. Theron Culver, Mrs. Clifford Rose, Mrs. Harry Walker and Mrs. Samuel Watts.

Jersey War Veterans To Wait 3 Months

Trenton, N. J., May 11 (AP)—New Jersey war veterans will have to wait three months to learn whether they will get a cash bonus.

Legislative action on the question which now hinges on finding funds to foot the $105,000,000 bill, was put off last night when the House referred it to the State Tax Policy Commission.

Senate concurrence in the resolution, adopted by a 55 to 0 vote under suspension of rules, was expected tomorrow.

The Republican majority in the House already on record for the bonus but hopelessly snarled in a search for the money—reached its decision in caucus and won unanimous support on the floor after a brief flurry over charges it was a "delaying action."

Democratic Minority Leader Bernard W. Vogel of Middlesex made the charge, but T. James Tumulty, Hudson Democrat usually is the majority's severest critic, said he thought the Republicans were sincere.

He asked, and got, assurances that his suggestion for a state lottery to finance the bonus would be considered, and that veterans would be heard.

For the past two weeks the G.O.P. leadership has been considering a varity of suggestions, including a state income tax, a use tax on electricity, increases in beer and gasoline levies, a gross receipts tax on business and levies on amusements and cosmetics.

Republicans Not Told

Casper, Wyo., May 11 (AP)—Wyoming's Democrats have earmarked their six national convention votes for President Truman but the state's nine vote Republican delegation will go uninstructed to Philadelphia. The nine Republican delegates include supports for Harold Stassen, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), aspirants for the presidential nomination.

Congress Will Be Asked To Create $3 Bill

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Congress will be asked to create a $3 bill to honor the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Rep. Klein (N.Y.), who describes himself as a Roosevelt Democrat, said today he will introduce an authorization measure this week.

Klein said a $3 bill would perpetuate the name of the late president because—among other things—it would signify his tenure of office: three terms, plus three months of his fourth term.

The Treasury Department confined its comment to an observation that major changes in currency are rare.

Kingston High Routs Newburgh Academy in DUSO Baseball, 14-1

Mains Yields His First Tally In 29 Frames; Lay Cracks Triple

The mere sight of a Newburgh Free Academy baseball squad must be a marvelous tonic for K.H.S. swingers.

Until yesterday's DUSO League brawl between the ancient rivals it was fashionable to whisper that Bill Burke had a good defensive squad, a great pitcher in Clark Mains and a bunch of cream puff hitters.

That was all before yesterday. Once the Goldbacks took the field, the transformation of the Maroons was tremendous. They batted like the New York Giants, fielded beautifully and perpetrated a slight case of murder, 14-1 behind the effective, if not sensational pitching of Mains.

Mains Yields One

Mains, the stolid Swede, has had better days. As a matter of fact, the Academians ruined his 29-inning scoreless streak with a single tally in the fourth, mainly because of Dominick's triple. He scattered six hits, walked three and struck out six to chalk up his fourth straight win.

Kingston belted Lofaro, the N.F.A. prima donna for a dozen safeties, including a bases loaded triple by Chris Lay and Bob Ghezzi's double. Mike Rienzo and Ghezzi each poled three safeties, while Bob Scheffel emerged from his slump with a pair of sharp singles.

A six-run sixth climaxed Kingston's scoring activities for the day. Coach Carl Arra, never a candidate for the SPCA, permitted his ace right hander to stay in and take a horrible whacking for five innings.

Kenny Takes Beating

The Maroons picked up three unearned tallies in the first inning when the Academians gave a deathless imitation of an over-anxious Dairymen's League squad. They began to hit for telephone numbers with a trio in the third, two in the fourth and six in the fifth. Next to Lofaro, the man who absorbed the greatest punishment was George Kenny, the official scorer.

It's Saugerties High at 4 p. m. today at the stadium with Dan Brown or Joe "The Claw" Albany pitching for Kingston in a non-league contest.

Oh yes, the attendance boomed all the way up to 125 yesterday, despite intermittent drizzle. We may yet have a crowd in that ball orchard.

Major League Roundup

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Any doubts over Elmer Riddle's comeback, termed by Pittsburgh's part-owner Bing Crosby as the "greatest since Al Jolson," were definitely dispelled today.

The gritty, 31-year-old righthander, forced to quit baseball four years ago because of an ailing arm, proved his previous stellar performances were no mere flashes in the pan.

Last night when he pitched the Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Waiver Pitcher

Purchased last winter from the Cincinnati Reds for the $10,000 waiver price strictly as a gamble, riddle has turned out to be the ace of Pittsburgh's mound corps. Last night's triumph was the third in a row for the Columbus, Ga., veteran, his fourth outstanding mound job in as many starts.

The triumph, coupled with Boston's 6-0 victory over the Cardinals in a night game in St. Louis, put the Pirates in a virtual tie for first place with the idle New York Giants and the Redbirds. The Cardinals, however, still maintained a 14-point mathematical advantage, although the three teams are even-stephen in games won and lost. St. Louis has won 10 and lost six for a .625 percentage, New York and Pittsburgh own 11-7 records for .611.

Sain Blanks Cards

Although Johnny Sain of Boston was clipped for 10, hits he became the first pitcher to shut out the Cards this season. It occurred in a night game in St. Louis. The victory boosted the Braves into a three-way tie with Brooklyn and Philadelphia's Phillies for fourth place, two and a half games behind the leaders. Each team has won nine and lost 10.

The Cleveland Indians strengthened their hold on first place in the American League by outslugging the Red Sox in Boston 12-7. It was the fifth straight triumph for the Indians and the fifth straight loss for Joe Mc Carthy's disappointing pennant contenders.

Larry Doby, hard-hitting Negro outfielder, led the Tribe attack. He pounded out four hits including his fifth home run.

The victory enabled the Indians to increase their first place lead over the idle Philadelphia Athletics to 27 percentage points. The teams are tied in games won and lost.

Yanks Keep Climbing

The third place New York Yankees swamped the Chicago White Sox, 9-3, to keep within a game of the lead. Joe DiMaggio, Bill Johnson and George Stirnweiss each hammered home runs off the White Sox' Bill Wight and Earl Harrist.

Early Wynn registered his third victory with a five-hit performance as he pitched the Washington Senators to a 6-2 triumph over the St. Louis Browns in a night contest at the capital city. The victory shoved the Senators into the first division with a .500 rating.

The National League's only scheduled day game, between the Giants and Cubs in Chicago, was postponed because of rain. All other teams in the majors were not scheduled.

Providence, R. I.—Tony Falco, 142, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Buddy Holderfield, 146, Little Rock, Ark. (10).

'Keepsie Climbs In Colonial Loop

Poughkeepsie's boisterous bats have pushed the Chiefs within three games of the top in the Colonial Baseball League.

The Chiefs sliced a half-game from the advantage held by first-place Stamford and second place New Brunswick last night by trouncing Waterbury at Poughkeepsie, 13 to 4.

New Brunswick is now two games ahead of Poughkeepsie, in third place with five wins and five defeats.

The wild game last night, only one on the Colonial schedule, produced two home runs, four triples and five doubles.

The round-trippers were contributed by Waterbury's Leo Eastham and Poughkeepsie's Chuck Quimby both in the eighth with none on.

Stan Spitzer, making his first start for the Chiefs, was the winning pitcher on a seven hitter. His mates collected 18 safeties off two Waterbury hurlers.

Speakers at Major Banquet

Principal speakers at the Major Bowling League's annual banquet at Tommie's Tavern on High street were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, left, the Rev. Father Henry E. Herdegen of St. Peter's Church, and E. • A Historian Watches the Goodall:

Venerable William C. DeWitt, the city historian, had never seen a championship golf match until he attended the Goodall Round Robin golf finals at Wykagyl Country Club in New Rochelle Sunday.

Accompanied by Lawrence E. Van Etten, formerly of Kingston, Mr. DeWitt was fascinated and overwhelmed by the play of 16 of the world's best golfers. Whether you are an expert, average or duffer linksman, or even if you are a non-playing, nothing in sports is more fascinating than watching the big "pros" do tricks with the oversized aspirin tablets.

Mr. DeWitt appears to have been thusly impressed. He was inspired to write an account of the trip for The Freeman and, while it is not couched in the traditional jargon of the golf trade, it makes interesting reading. Suppose we have Mr. DeWitt carry the ball from here on out:

• His First Visit at Golf:

"The writer (Mr. DeWitt) had never seen a championship game of golf so when the opportunity came to visit New Rochelle for the Goodall we grasped it.

"The rain came down heavily in the second round but we had umbrellas and topcoats. And we had the added pleasure of being escorted by Lawrence E. Van Etten, a native of Kingston, who is the No. 1 charter member of Wykagyl.

"We thankfully took our places at the ropes near the green and began to see the little white balls fall here and there on the green. Not one shot rolled off into the traps, evidence of the accuracy of the shots by the champion players. There were a number of players disturbed by the wet green so it took an extra putt or even two here and there.

"Lloyd Mangrum was ahead then but Herman Barron of the nearby Fenway Country Club was gaining according to word that was spreading quietly among the crowd. Bobby Locke of South Africa also was coming on strong.

"As these players passed to the next tee to the east we followed with other spectators and saw the magnificent drives which despite the downpour carried from 250 to 300 yards and all landed within a radius of 20 yards.

• His Guest's Background:

"Mr. Van Etten, who in his youth could shoot in the 70s, explained every move made by the champions. He is the man who laid out Wykagyl (taken from an Indian name) and knew every hole and trap in the course. Mr. Van Etten likes the play of Ben Hogan, the Texan and is high on Byron Nelson, who has retired but is reported readying a comeback. He also likes Bobby Locke of South Africa, the man in the knickers, who won the Goodall last year. I was impressed by the style of each player, their drives, their putts. It was the chance of a lifetime.

"At the end of that stormy day when the players gathered in the press room in the magnificent club house where the newspapermen were copying voluminous notes, scores and interviewing the pros, Mr. Van Etten was interviewed and his opinion asked about the play. He said he thought the 16 pros had done remarkably well in the face of the heavy rain and easterly wind.

"The reporters for some of the newspapers corrected an error about Wykagyl. It was stated the day before in some papers that Mr. Van Etten had originally laid out Wykagyl as a 9-hole course. They acknowledged that Mr. Van Etten made is an 18-holer.

• New Rochelle's Gain . . . .

"Everyone, including the players, appreciated the challenge of the course. They expressed amazement at the excellent physical condition of Mr. Van Etten who had played with the great British immortals, Braid and Vardon when they visited the U. S. and practiced at Wykagyl.

"While I was in New Rochelle, citizens mentioned to me how proud their city was of Lawrence E. Van Etten and glad that he had left Kingston away back in 1888 and built up great residential developments, with such beautiful driveways, private parks, second to none, saving the Paine home, with the help of others and giving it a more prominent location.

"He also made his mark throughout Westchester county in landscaping, etc. . . . New Rochelle's and Westchester county's gain has been Kingston's and Ulster county's loss. Nevertheless we have had part of his genius in Ulster county's Sundown-in-the-Catskills where he still spends part of his summers at his camp on the lovely Beaverkill at his favorite piscatorial sport. . . ."

No New Golf Aces on Horizon Says Saddened Ex-P.G.A. Head

New York, May 11 (AP)—Freddie Corcoran, who has had a chubby finger on the pulse of big time golf for years, surveyed the horizon today and said there's not a "promising comer" in sight.

"It's true," the bouncing Bostonian added. "We don't have any future Sarazens Nelsons and Hogans on the way up. Where they'll come from nobody knows.

"Maybe it'll be necessary to take a tip from baseball—scout around for youngsters with talent, let our top pros instruct them in clinics and then give them a solid start in competition."

Corcoran said in an interview that the absence of bright young hopes in golf probably could be attributed to the war and resultant inflation which struck a hard blow at caddy ranks, the incubator of links greats.

Is Private Business

To devote more time to his personal promotional business, Corcoran recently resigned his post with the Professional Golfers Association. He was P.G.A. tournament manager for 11 years and during the past year has served as promotional director.

In the old days, Corcoran said, the boys began as caddies, toted the clubs of the stars just to copy their swings and then worked endlessly on their games.

"Nowadays," he added, "how many youngsters are going to walk 10 or 15 miles a day for a small caddy fee when they can get good folding money doing a softer job?

"We have to interest the boys through junior tournaments, seek out the good ones and give them professional instruction. Then we must give them a start in tournament play."

B'nai B'rith Takes Opener

B'nai B'rith opened its City Softball League schedule yesterday with a 9 to 3 victory over Cordts Hose at Hasbrouck Park.

Basch's home run with two aboard was a big factor in the B'rith win.

Halpern and Basch formed the winning battery, with Meyers and Lowe working for the losers.

Garden Boxing Resumes Friday

New York, May 11 (AP)—The Twentieth Century Club, having made peace with ring managers over television receipts, sought hurriedly today to line up a Madison Square Garden boxing card for Friday night.

Members of the New York Boxing Managers Guild ended a six-week boycott of the promotional organization yesterday after Twentieth Century agreed to pay boxers 25 per cent of all television money. That's half of Twentieth Century's take.

Madison Square Garden, which as a partner splits the receipts with Twentieth Century, has refused to cut in managers and boxers.

End of the boycott was announced by Charley Johnston, president of the Managers Guild which controls most of the name fighters in the metropolitan area.

Johnston said the decision was a unanimous one made by the full membership of 122 managers. He added it was the result of a request by Chairman Eddie Eagan of the New York State Athletic Commission.

The boycott hasn't affected the Garden because the circus has occupied the big arena for the past month or so. However, St. Nicholas Arena, where the Twentieth Century also promotes fights, has been idle for four weeks.

Matchmaker Chick Bogad said he was seeking principals for three ten-rounders for the Garden Friday.

Davenport's 78 Wins Weekly Sweepstakes at Wiltwyck

The hottest golfer in town—Maurice Davenport—continued to burn up the fairways at Wiltwyck over the week-end, firing identical rounds of 39 to capture low gross honors in the golf ball sweepstakes with a neat 78.

It was the third week in succession that Davenport led the field and the third straight time he was under 80.

Billy Van Aken, the city champion, stroked a gaudy 36 and after an opening 43 to finish in second place, a stroke behind the pace setter.

Has Two Birdies

Van Aken negotiated the first eight holes in 30 the second time around only to double-bogie the long 18th for a 36, one over par. He birdied No. 1, was one over on the tough No. 3 and birdied the fifth. Van Aken had regulation figures on the difficult "dog leg", the seventh and eighth before coming a cropper on the 9th.

Van Aken's scorecard read something like this for the incoming nine: 3-3-5-4-3-5-4-3-6—36.

Other winners in the drawing for low net were Stan Hankinson, Charles E. Burnett, Bill Van Aken, J. Dean Dykstra, Jim Winters, Dick Davenport, Ed Schoonmaker, and Stan Winne in that order.

Naval Athlete Killed by Javelin

Annapolis, Md., May 11 (AP)—A javelin hurled by a classmate yesterday killed midshipman George J. Eliopolus, naval academy athlete.

Capt. E. B. Taylor, navy athletic director, said the 23-year-old victim "was struck in the neck by a javelin that slipped from the hands of midshipman George H. Stone." Eliopolus pulled the spear from his own neck, but collapsed and died within four minutes.

Taylor said Stone was "hospitalized suffering from shock."

The two boys had been working out together at the Thompson stadium when the mishap occurred. Trainer Billy Fallon and others rushed to Eliopolus' aid at once and medical officers arrived within four minutes, Taylor said. He estimated the spear traveled not more than 15 feet.

Eliopolus, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Eliopolus of Rawlins, Wyoming, was an academy track man and varsity basketball player. He came here about three years ago from the University of Wyoming. Stone's home is in Kingsport, Tenn.

Trains Stop Coaltown: That's Calumet's Story

Baltimore, May 11 (AP)—The Citation-Coaltown combination will be minus Coaltown when it chases the $100,000 Preakness prize around the Pimlico track Saturday.

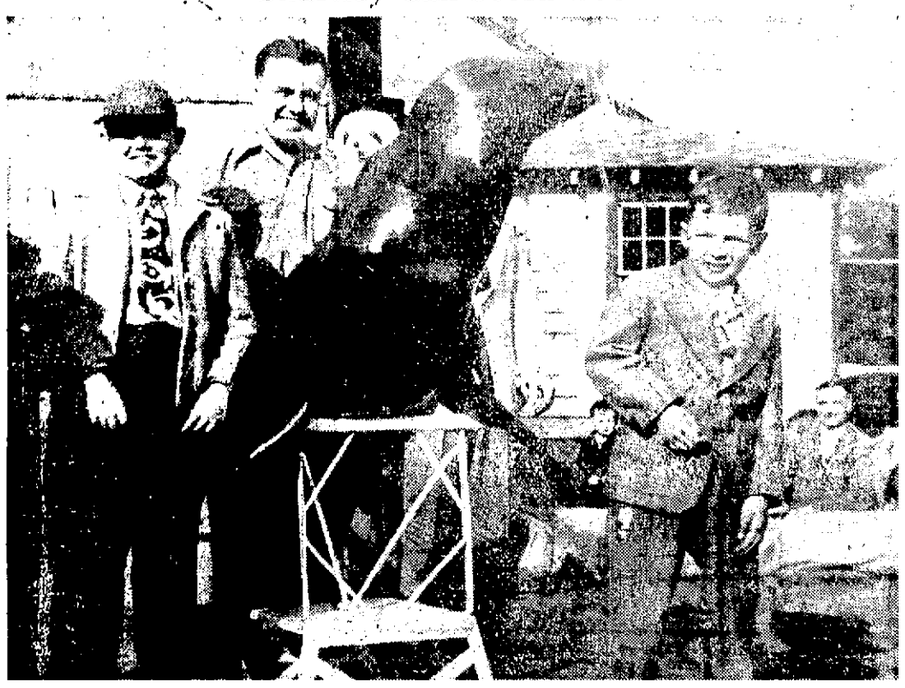

The final decision to let Citation be the lone Calumet farms representative was ascribed to the threatened railroad strike. Coaltown, who was second only to his stablemate in the Kentucky Derby, will stay at Churchill Downs for several days and then move to Belmont.

"We were afraid the colt might get stopped or sidetracked somewhere along the line," said trainer Jimmy Jones.

Reverse Record

In winning the Southeastern Conference football crown last autumn, Mississippi merely reversed the previous season's record from a 1-6 mark in '46 to 6-1 finish in '47.

Sharkey Can Scold Too

Sunday afternoon when Sharkey, the famous seal of movie and musical comedy fame, performed in his special tank outside of Seal College near The Barn, Plank road night club, he made friends with a lot of kiddies but scolded Dennis Noonan of 27 Snyder avenue, right, when he squeezed a little too firmly while shaking hands. Bob Teetsel, at the microphone, owner of The Barn, who collaborated with Mark Huling, Sharkey's owner and trainer, announced that repeat shows would be offered again Saturday and Sunday this week if the weather is favorable and Sharkey isn't dated to appear elsewhere for cash. The local shows are free for children and their parents, despite the seal's rating as the "highest paid single animal act in the world." He does the same routine here that he has pleased audiences with all over the United States at leading theatres, state fairs and sportsmen's shows. (Joe Kelly Photo)

Union Hose Nips Veterans, 7 to 6

Union Hose nosed out the Veterans of Foreign Wars, 7 to 6, in a City Softball League opener at the armory diamond yesterday via some heavy slugging in the middle innings.

Batting honors went to W. Sinsapaugh of Union Hose with a homer and single; and to W. Schmitz, of V.F.W., who cracked two triples and a double. D. Schrader also had two hits.

The score:

Union Hose	003	310	0	7	8	0

Subway Grill crushed Scranton Lace Mills, 28-6, under a barrage of extra base blows in yesterday's City Softball League opener.

Statler, Spader and Whitaker clouted home runs; B. Schatzel, Hoffman and Bigler hit triples, while doubles were credited to B. Schatzel, J. Schatzel, Fautz, Maines (2), Hunt, Moxon, Spader, Bigler and Sickles.

Carbondale Maintains North Atlantic Lead

Carbondale, current pace setter in the North Atlantic League, defeated Lansdale 7-5 last night.

Nyack batted in seven runs in the 10th inning to break a 4-4 deadlock and defeat Bloomingdale 11-4.

The Stroudsburg Poconos blasted out 13 hits to turn back Mahanoy City easily, 11-7.

Nazareth and Peekskill were not scheduled.

Inside Car Mirror Meets Legal Demand

Albany, N. Y., May 11 (AP)—An interior center mirror is all most automobiles need to comply with the new state law requiring rear vision mirrors.

The Motor Vehicles Bureau said today the law did "not necessarily" require outside mirrors. The usual inside mirrors will meet requirements unless vision through the rear window is obstructed, the bureau said.

The law extending the mirror requirement to all automobiles becomes effective July 1. Present law requires mirrors on certain types of trucks and buses.

'Picks' Minds to Find $500 in Dinner Roll

Beverly Hills, Calif., May 11 (AP)—It didn't cost Dr. Franz Polgar a dime to pick up a $500 check at a dinner at the Knife and Fork Club. In fact, if the good doctor hadn't found the check he'd have been out $500.

His fee for addressing the dinner was $500. He agreed that if he couldn't find the check the club could keep it. The diners knew the check was secreted in a parker house roll, and they knew the right parker house roll.

It took Dr. Polgar, a doctor of psychology who studied under Sigmund Freud, just three minutes to locate the check. He had the diners concentrate on its location. Then he "picked" their minds.

It's simple if you know your parker house rolls.

Stock Handlers Stay

Chicago, May 11 (AP)—A threatened strike of 400 C.I.O. stockhandlers at the world's largest stockyards in Chicago was averted last night, four hours before the 12:01 a. m. strike deadline. Frank Monaghan, president of Local 44 C.I.O. Stockhandlers Union, which claims 400 members, said the union had accepted a new contract which provides for a wage increase of six cents an hour.

French Police Study Reports on Princess' Safety

Paris, May 11 (AP)—Published rumors of a Jewish underground plot to assassinate or kidnap Princess Elizabeth during her visit to Paris this week are reported under French police study today.

A British spokesman described the reports as highly improbable. He said rumors that Irgun Svai Leumi Extremists might make an attempt against the princess "seem to spring from the assumption that Paris is the headquarters for the activity of this gang."

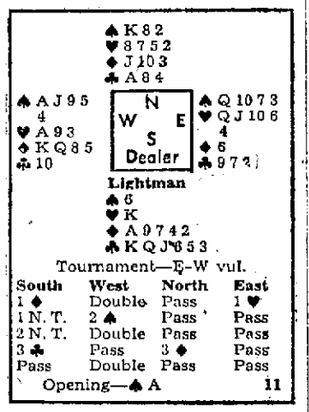

French police said security agents will maintain a close guard over Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their four-day sojourn in the French capital. They are due here Friday.

The newspaper France-Soir said yesterday French police had received orders to arrest "an individual who may make an attempt on the life of Princess Elizabeth."

The Midwest Conference tournament at Cincinnati was one of the largest tournaments I have attended for a long time. The Cincinnati unit of the American Contract Bridge League entertained royally. Cincinnati is the home of the United States Playing Card Company, and between sessions on the last day of the tournament, that company gave a buffet dinner for contestants.

"Wrecked on the rocks of distribution" is a remark often heard at tournaments, and during the dinner that expression was used in a discussion of today's hand by M. A. Lightman of Memphis, Tenn., former holder of the world championship pair title.

After winning the opening lead of the ace of spades West shifted to the ten of clubs. Lightman won this in dummy with the ace, and cashed the king of spades, discarding the king of hearts from his own hand. Now the best that West could do was make three diamond tricks and the ace of spades.

The interesting point in this hand was not in making three diamonds doubled, but the fact that if Lightman had passed two no trump doubled he undoubtedly would have made that contract also. It is likely that West would have led the three of hearts rather than the ace—at least the West player against Lightman said he would have led the three. In that case Lightman would win with the king, cash six clubs and the ace of diamonds for eight tricks.

Presentation Holy Name Communion Largely Attended

The ninth annual communion breakfast of Presentation Holy Name Society of Port Ewen was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Sunday morning. The breakfast followed the corporate communion of the society at the 8 o'clock Mass at the Church of The Presentation and was very well attended.

The speaking program after the breakfast was one of the best ever arranged by the society. Included on the program were the Rev. Joseph Comyns, C.Ss.R., spiritual director of the society, the Rt. Rev. Martin J. Drury, the Very Rev. Edward Wuenschel, C.Ss.R., rector of Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary, Esopus, the Rev. James Kerins, C.Ss.R., of Mt. St. Alphonsus, and William Lechive, president of the Ulster County Union of Holy Name Societies. President P. J. Watson presided with P. J. Beichert, a former president of the society, serving as toastmaster.

The speakers all touched upon various important topics of the day with Father Kerins giving the principal address, which was greatly enjoyed by the men present. Father Kerins gave the Lenten course of sermons at the Church of The Presentation and his fine discourses were greatly appreciated.

Sunday evening the annual election of officers of the society was held at a meeting in St. Leo's Hall. President Pierce J. Watson was re-elected by acclamation. The other officers were also re-elected to serve another term, B. Coniglio, vice president; Paul Beaver, secretary; and John A. Henry, treasurer.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
To New York State Gun Owners

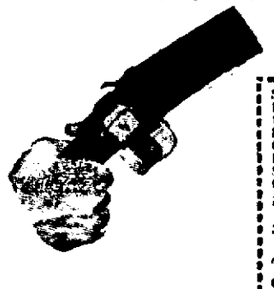

A maximum penalty of five years imprisonment, or a fine of not over $..., or both, for a person whose negligent handling of a gun results in ... death of another is provided under Senate Bill No. 1117 and Assembly Bill No. 1203 now pending in the New York State Legislature. The National Rifle Association of America, leading gun authorities and safety-minded gun owners everywhere have endorsed these bills as good, common sense steps forward greater gun safety. With these strong endorsements, the bills are expected to become law at the next session of the Legislature.

How will the new SAFETY bills affect you, as a gun owner? • Years of experience have proved that guns, whether loaded or "unloaded", have caused death or serious injury to thousands of children or inexperienced persons who happened upon them in closets or gun racks. In fact, today gun accidents are the sixth ranking cause of fatal injury. Obviously, there is a real need for the new SAFETY BILLS which affect each and every individual gun owner in the State. Soon, it will be your legal as well as moral responsibility to take additional safety precautions to protect the lives of others.

Here is what you can do to make your gun safer . . . and, at the same time, take an important step to conform to the SAFETY BILLS. A safety guard especially designed to take the "human error" element out of ordinary gun handling is TRIGGER-SAFE. By locking TRIGGER-SAFE in place with a key, you will make it impossible for unwary and untrained fingers to touch off the trigger.

TRIGGER-SAFE has been hailed by leading gun authorities and associations as the greatest gun safety advance in years. Harry E. Haynes, famous Savage Arms representative and a rifleman for over sixty years, says, "I consider TRIGGER-SAFE a fine safety device which should prevent many gun accidents. It should be used by all gun owners."

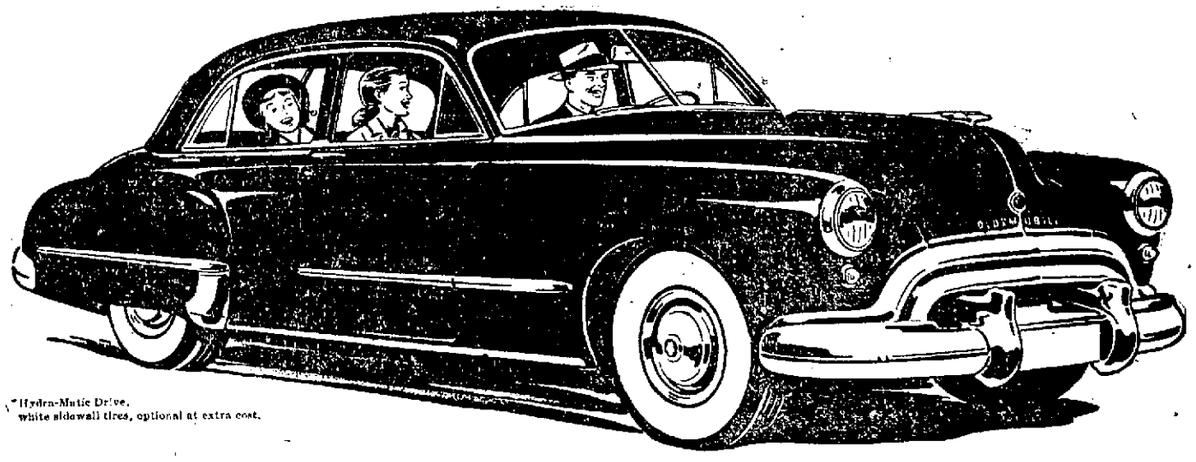

You can make your guns safe and take important steps to conform to the Safety Bills. Just clip the coupon below and enclose $2 in check, money order or cash for quick, post-paid delivery of TRIGGER-SAFE. We will ship C.O.D. if you prefer. 30 DAY MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. TRIGGER-SAFE fits hundreds of makes and models of rifles and shotguns. (Not for lever actions or handguns.) State make and model in order.

Peace, Harmony Most Important in Community Life

Material Gain Secondary, Says Judge Cashin at Inter-Faith Breakfast

Peaceful and harmonious living in a community is more important than its material progress, County Judge John M. Cashin told 160 uniformed and civilian employes of the institution at Napanoch in St. Mary's Hall, Ellenville, at an inter-faith communion breakfast Sunday.

Protestants, Jews and Catholics in the group who had attended their respective churches for services at 8 a. m. marched in a body to the hall after the services. The program stressed observance of Mother's Day.

Judge Cashin emphasized the point that it is more important that people live together happily, peacefully and harmoniously than it is to lay out parks and streets and erect buildings.

Manifests Tolerance

"You gentlemen," he said, "have done a significant thing in behalf of religious tolerance by your common breaking of bread following services in your respective religions."

This country to a great extent, he stressed, owes its beginning to the determination of our hardy ancestors to maintain complete freedom of religion.

The man who realizes that for most people life is difficult and disappointing will not sow seeds of discontent, but in truly human sympathy will constantly endeavor to create by his daily contacts cheer, courage and confidence, he declared. "He is the real, true, understanding citizen," he emphasized.

All religion is opposed to intolerance, unfairness and hatefulness, the judge said, and the more fervent one is in his religion, the more kind and considerate he is of all men.

Thomas J. Hanlon, superintendent of the institution, who introduced Judge Cashin, complimented the employes for their fitting observance of Mother's Day, for their expression of religion and for their exemplification of tolerance and real Americanism.

Other Speakers

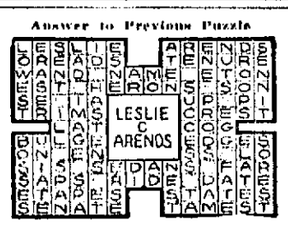

Others who participated in the program were: The Rev. Francis E. McGuire, Protestant chaplain, who said grace; the Rev. James P. Flynn, Catholic chaplain, who delivered the address of welcome and Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, who gave the benediction.

The program included movies, "The House We Live In," by Harold Hecht, and the song, "God Bless America," with Harry Smith conducting and Mrs. A. Shonbachler, pianist.

The committee arranging the affair was composed of Harry Shapiro, Lt. George Winsman and James Morrow. Ben Miller was in charge of photography.

Bishop Writing Book

New York, May 11 (AP)—A retired Protestant Episcopal bishop said today on the eve of his 82nd birthday that he was writing a book recalling his 45 years here. The Right Rev. William T. Manning who served for 25 years as bishop of the New York Diocese, said he had just started writing the book. The bishop, now living with his wife and daughter in Greenwich Village, said he planned no special celebration of his birthday tomorrow. "I find I am as busy as I ever have been," he said. Bishop Manning ended his long church career at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on December 31, 1946.

Preparing Applications

New York, May 11 (AP)—Four private bus and trolley lines were preparing new applications for higher fares today, after their original requests came up against legal stumbling-blocks. The lines were told yesterday by the city's Board of Estimate that their applications for boosted fares failed to meet city charter limitations, and that they would have to make out new requests by tomorrow.

Will Be Open to Public

New York, May 11 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Coral Sea will visit New York and be open for public visits Saturday and Sunday, the Navy announced today.

Railroads Run . . .

A. J. Glover of the Switchmen's Union.

Announcement Made

Last night, after facing reporters and cameramen at frequent intervals all through a dramatic and swift-changing day, the three union chiefs cooped themselves up in their hotel rooms and let a young assistant, Eddie Gloss, make the announcement the country was waiting to hear.

It was 10:20 p. m. when Gloss stepped out of an elevator into the lobby of the sedate Hamilton Hotel and said simply to the waiting newsmen:

"The brotherhoods will comply with the court order. Steps to that effect are being taken immediately."

The "steps" were telegrams the three union heads were rushing to their local officers. Without the court order and the unions' obedience the strike would have begun at 6 o'clock in each time zone this morning.

The telegrams to the local union officers were identical.

They began "I was served . . ." and then described the court order which U. S. deputy marshals had handed the three union officers in a seventh-floor hotel room while two city policemen stood guard in the corridor.

The Goldsborough order said the threatened strike would deprive the country of essential transportation, hamper commerce, obstruct the mails, imperil the national health and safety, frustrate the powers conferred on the government's executive branch by the Constitution, and cause "irreparable injury" to the nation.

The Judge ordered the three unions to withdraw their strike notice "forthwith" and not permit or encourage a walkout.

The union leaders' telegrams, after describing this order, said the strike call is "hereby canceled" and all employes should "continue to report for duty."

Thus the government had beaten down another major strike by using the injunction weapon.

May Hold Conference

Jackson, Miss., May 11 (AP)—States Rights Democrats, having repudiated President Truman at their conference here, fashioned a weapon to wield in the forthcoming Philadelphia convehtion. The weapon is the declared threat to hold a southern conference of accredited states rights delegates to "take all necessary and appropriate action" if the Democratic Party in the Philadelphia convention continues endorsement of the civil rights program and those candidates who support it.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 11 (AP)—The news was on the side of recovery in today's stock market and leaders generally edged upward despite considerable profit cashing.

Bullish contingents found an argument in the calling off of the threatened railway strike and the agreement of Russia to confer with America for the settlement of differences between the two countries.

Chances of a technical correction of the swing to new highs since last July, however, caused the trimming of accounts here and there.

Dealings were relatively active throughout. While advances running to a point or so were reduced or cancelled near the fourth hour, the plus column remained widely populated.

Touching best levels for 1948 were Standard Oil (Ohio), on a jump in net; Illinois Central, Southern Pacific and Radio Corp.

In front most of the time were Southern Railway, Rock Island Preferred (on a favorable dividend), Pennsylvania Railroad, U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, U.S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Western Union, American Smelting, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Warner Bros. and Mission Corp.

Laddie to Be Watched, Council Spares Life

Winsted, Conn., May 11 (AP)—Laddie had his life today but was under sentence to a lifetime of confinement and close supervision.

Neighbors sought Laddie's destruction, charging in their petition to the selectmen that the two-year-old collie pet of Barbara Scanlon was vicious and dangerous because it had bitten a newsboy on the porch of the Scanlon home here two weeks ago. The selectmen ruled the dog was not vicious but nervous.

The tawny, black-nosed dog went on trial for his life before the Board of Selectmen last night in a jam-packed hearing room that was lighted brilliantly by photographers' floodlights and tense with partisan feeling.

When the three-hour hearing was finished, the selectmen ruled that Laddie could go back to its owner with the stipulation that Miss Scanlon keep the dog fenced in while at home and on a leash or chain when it moved about the town with her.

Violation of the stipulation, the selectmen decreed, would mean a $25 fine for the dog's owner and the immediate destruction of the animal.

The dog, calm and collected, remained at the side of its mistress throughout the hearing at which approximately 40 persons testified.

The typewriter was invented in 1867 by Christopher Sholes of Mooresburg, Pa.

Easy Money Jitters

By FRANK TRIPP

When you hand your youngster a five spot and he gives you the icy stare, do you ever try to figure how today's kids got that way?

For an evening more strenuous than a stroll in the park five dollars is about as useless to our offspring as a quarter used to be. This is particularly true if the youngster doesn't have to earn it; if the old man is financing his advent into the modern juvenile swim.

It's easy to figure that the poor kid is not to blame; that everything he does costs four to ten times what it cost his dad to court his mother.

That part of it is plain arithmetic and Amos & Andy economics. "One billion, two billion, three billion, 253 billion" roll glibly off the tongues of people who have no conception of what a billion is.

But that's not what really makes modest sums so insulting to the lads and lassies of today. At least so thinks one victim of their greed. He says it's the case with which they hear big sums of money can be had.

A father who has trouble to make ends meet wept on my shoulder the other day. He is a drudge for his family. What with high prices he never has anything for himself. He even quit his little fun of weekly bowling so he could give more to his boy who's beginning to step out.

He could take his sacrifice with a smile if the lad appreciated it. Instead the boy broke the poor fellow's heart. The young ingrate wanted to know how come his father's poverty, why he hadn't gone out and got himself some dough.

That to a struggling father from an upstart who has yet to earn his first suit of clothes. But he can blow in five or ten of the old man's hard earnings of an evening every time he can get hold of it.

What do you think the father said to me?

"He's a good boy, I don't blame him and I want him to have a happy youth," he said. "But I wish to God that a radio program never could be heard in my house again."

We have heard prattle of the influence of the movies on the ambitions of people of modest means. That the luxury and lavishness that Hollywood portrays have brought discontent and covetousness which can lead to crooked thinking, to dishonesty and crime. How much of this is real we all have questioned.

Maybe what the father said can be equally discounted. His rebellion against radio damns all programs because of his hatred of a few. He blames them for his son's cheap estimate of money and of life.

"I try to get the boy to carry papers after school," the father said. "And he tells me: 'For a lousy six or seven bucks a week? Why a guy got twelve dollars on the air last night for knowing what three coins make a quarter. Working to get money is out of date. Nobody but a sucker does that any more.'"

"Quite interesting," I said, "but surely such thinking can't cause you to blame radio."

"These birds who give away the moon have the country on the ropes,' he insisted. "At my house the whole family listens, answers the questions, adds up their score and takes in anywhere from $50 to $500 a night—in their minds. Then they spend it their way—also in their minds. While I guard the pitiful $12.75 that's got to run the whole outfit till next pay day."

In that man's opinion it is bad to parade so much easy money before people who have a hard time to get along. He says it emphasizes their wants, the futility of democracy, the cheapness of money, the hopelessness of the masses and inflates the ideas of youth.

He talked about saving fats to get pennies and increase the supply of soap; then listening to soap makers giving away thousands, several thousands, to people for doing things to make folks laugh. While he slaves to keep a home together. Strange reasoning?

Here is a frustrated man, harassed almost out of balance. Deluded to blame his economic plight upon a product of progress which brings the world to his door. Deluded or not he is possessed of thoughts which create national unrest and have brought revolution to other lands.

I write his story only to tell you what a discouraged homemaker, who may be typical of millions, is thinking.

foreign minister—were inclined to extremely cautious optimism.

Moscow characteristically disclosed the latest turn of events and give its own version. Thereupon the State Department early today published a 1,400-word dispatch from Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith detailing a face-to-face approach he made to Molotov a week ago on direct instructions from Secretary Marshall.

What he told Molotov, Smith reported, was that the United States holds to its hope for a "decent and reasonable relationship" with Russia—and:

"As far as the United States is concerned, the door is always open for full discussion and the composing of our differences."

Molotov Is Quoted

Molotov, in his formal reply five days later, was quoted by the Russian news agency Tass as saying:

"The Soviet Government views favorably the desire of the Government of the United States to improve relations as expressed in (Smith's) statement and agrees to the proposal to proceed with this end in view to discussion and settlement of differences existing between us."

Smith's reminder that the door to an American-Soviet conference remains open, followed a bluntly worded declaration that the American people are solidly behind United States policy toward Russia.

Their support and determination will not be weakened by the approaching presidential political campaign, Smith said he told Molotov.

And he added that even if an economic crisis — which Soviet propaganda has pictured as inevitable—should occur in the United States it "would not affect in any way our basic productive capacity, nor our concept of the basic factors underlying our foreign policy."

Says Concern Intensified

Smith said American concern over Russia's action has been intensified by the "inexplicable hostility" of the Soviet Government to the Marshall Plan of economic aid to non-Communist Europe.

He stressed once again this country's determination not to be swayed from carrying out the multi-billion dollar recovery program.

Bluntly, the ambassador put the full blame for the current state of world tension on what he called Russian's aggressive action in Eastern Europe and Communist efforts to grab control of countries elsewhere.

At the same time Smith reassured Molotov that "the United States has no hostile or aggressive designs whatever with respect to the Soviet Union."

He added that if Communist minorities were to halt their attempts to seize power in non-Communist lands "some of the manifestations of United States foreign policy which apparently are unwelcome in Moscow" would halt with them. He concluded:

"My government earnestly hopes that the members of the Soviet government will not take lightly the position of the U. S. government as here expressed. They have it in their power to alleviate many of the situations which today weigh so heavily on all international life.

"It is our earnest hope that they will take advantage of these possibilities. If they do, they will not find us lacking in readiness and eagerness to make our own contribution to a stabilization of world conditions entirely compatible with the security of the Soviet peoples."

Both Are on Record

American officials, while cautious, noted that with Molotov's reply, both of the major postwar antagonists now are on record as willing to open talks looking to a settlement of outstanding differences.

These range over almost every basic issue that has arisen since V-E Day—peace terms for Germany and Austria, the Marshall Plan, the scope of the United Nations, American efforts to bolster Greece and Turkey, and the future of Korea.

Part of the official caution here stemmed from the Kremlin's relay in delivering the text of Molotov's note, which was summarized on the Moscow radio before it reached the State Department.

The summary said Russia now has a "positive attitude" toward improving Soviet-American relations, and is "extremely interested in the development of post-war international economic cooperation."

But Moscow (a) denied any interference in the affairs of eastern European countries, (b) said Russia will continue signing mutual aid pacts with her neighbors, (c) charged the United States once again with "interference" in Greece and elsewhere, and (d) asserted the Soviets object to the Marshall Plan only because, as Moscow put it, it fails to respect the national rights of the countries getting American aid.

That left it up to one side or the other to come forward with a specific proposal on how to translate the professions of good will into definitely better relations.

Smith's approach to Molotov, made May 4 before his departure for a vacation in western Germany, was directed from Washington without so much as a hint to many officials here concerned with dealings with Russia.

These officials assumed it was ordered by Marshall with the blessing of President Truman. The Chief Executive has stated repeatedly he would welcome another personal meeting with Premier Stalin—provided the Soviet leader would come to this country. Their only meeting was at Potsdam in mid-1945.

to national security by the "continued, almost unrestricted operation of such a movement within our own borders should be obvious to everyone."

It said the administration has failed to "appreciate and understand the potentialities of Communist agents within our nation."

The committee said it drafted the report to demonstrate "the urgent need for enforcement of existing laws." It said these provide 10-year prison sentences and $10,000 fines for persons advocating violent overthrow of the government and require foreign-controlled organizations to register with the attorney general.

Acting Chairman McDowell (R-Pa.) told newsmen the report is a strong argument in behalf of a committee-approved bill to apply new curbs to Communist activities.

This bill is scheduled to come before the House Thursday. Sponsors have predicted swift passage.

The measure would require the Communist party to file a full membership list each year with the Justice Department, compel the party and its related groups to label their publications and broadcasts as Communist propaganda. It would provide jail terms and fines for party leaders who fail to disavow connections with movements to overthrow the American government.

proving the Central District formation, Woodstock, Zena, Bearsville and Shady districts were not included.

Under the proposed plan, should it be approved at the meeting on May 21, it is planned to erect a central school in the vicinity of Mt. Tremper at some future time when construction costs warrant such a program. If voted at the meeting now called, the centralization plan would go into effect on July 1 and all schools in the Central School District No. 1, would be governed by the Board of Education. While present schools would be maintained until such time as a central building is erected, the district would become a single unit with a common tax rate.

At the present time the plan is to ultimately erect a central school building on the flats at a site somewhere between Boiceville and Mt. Tremper.

Jungle Gas Masks

Sydney, Australia, (AP)—Bushworkers in northern Queensland have found one of the hazards of clearing tropical scrub is the pollen from a species of stinging nettle tree which causes hay fever and continuous sneezing. One worker got the idea of using gas masks and his mates have followed his example. The masks are hot but that is preferable to the ravages of the pollen.
